Pride of Place Goes to The

Austin

Prospective Buyers of Motor Cars should guard themselves against any suggestion not to examine the Austin. Every Austin model—the "Seven"—the "Twelve"—the "Twelve-six"—the "Sixteen-six" and the "Twenty" has secured pride of place in its own class and kept there. This success has been quite natural. It is the direct and inevitable result of dependability. A simple proof of Austin dependability lies in the difficulty one experiences in buying a second-hand Austin. From £153 at Dublin.

PELARGONIUMS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Pelargoniums, our generally so-called Geraniums, of the bedding and green-house tribe, if inserted forthwith, are certain of successful rooting. Cuttings from outside plants, sturdy and short-jointed, with three leaves, should be cut clean across immediately below a joint, the bottom leaf being removed, the cutting then being firmly planted with the dibble in the sunny border, watering subsequently only as necessary to avoid shrivelling, should dry weather demand it. Cuttings can now be taken without spoiling effect of the bed, one or two from each plant, and ere September is out they will be well rooted for potting or transference to boxes for winter protection. Cuttings can, of course, be rooted direct in the boxes, but we prefer rooting them first in the border under full exposure.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

"SLUM" POULTRY-KEEPERS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

We have received a letter of strong condemnation against all keepers of fowls in town yards and gardens by a correspondent who evidently resides adjoining some badly kept hen runs, and he says:—"I expect the big majority of keepers of slum hens run their business in much the same way." He asks me to write an article on "The Slum Hen."

Well, while we regret to say there are cases similar to that which our correspondent describes, yet, we would be sorry to think the majority of town and city poultry-keepers are guilty of the same treatment.

Those who keep a mongrel class of hens, ill fed, and in a filthy, unsightly condition, are not deserving of pity, for, with all the information broadcast on poultry and their treatment, and the numerous ways and means now available for all to enable the very smallest place to be made attractive, there is no excuse for anyone to keep a place that is "cruel to the hens and unhealthy to the neighbours." As we wrote recently, no one should keep hens unless in a clean, sanitary condition. But we believe, for the one offender there are a dozen whose poultry houses and runs are in every respect pleasing in appearance and kept in a sanitary condition. We have always endeavoured to encourage such and give them suitable help.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

Mr. George E. Smyth : A New Confidence Trick : Irish Hobbies
The Housewife and the Dairymaid : A Redmond Statue.
The American Language.

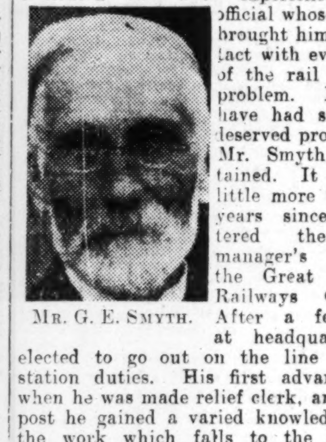
Hollywood's Own English.

The following comment on American speech, which I cull from the Manchester Guardian, strikes me as going fairly close to the root of the question:—

When George Moore was trying to persuade Edward Martyn to admire Synge, "dear Edward" remarked with some point of the style of "The Playboy" that "It isn't English. I like the Irish language and the English language, but I don't like the mixture." Something of the sort will be in the minds of a good many people in face of the "great new discovery" that Hollywood is going to emerge triumphant from all the difficulties of language through the discovery of what we are told is the "language of the future, or Anglo-American." Apparently this is less a new language than a new way of pronouncing an old language, though we are told that we in this country shall have to adopt many American turns of expression. But does not this overlook a rather important detail, which is that educated people on both sides of the Atlantic speak very much the same English in very much the same way, and that the Broadway dialect is as alien to the American of ordinary culture as racing slang is to the educated Englishman? Probably a good deal too much is claimed for the "new language."

Railway Official's Career.

In the address which Mr. George E. Smyth, the retired superintendent of the line of the Great Southern Railways of Ireland, delivered last week before the Dublin Rotary Club, there was concentrated the wide experience of an official whose business brought him into contact with every phase of the rail transport problem. Few men have had such well-deserved promotion as Mr. Smyth has obtained. It is only a little more than fifty years since he entered the traffic manager's office of the Great Southern Railways Company. After a few years at headquarters he elected to go out on the line to learn station duties. His first advance came when he was made relief clerk, and in this post he gained a varied knowledge of all the work which falls to the lot of a station-master. His subsequent process to the position of superintendent was rapid. In this position he had some delicate functions to discharge, and in the negotiations between the company and the men he always acted with tact and firmness.



MR. G. E. SMYTH.

Confidence Men.

I have just heard of a rather clever confidence trick which has been worked in one of our southern seaside resorts. This is a variation of which I had not previously heard. It appears that a rather benevolent-looking old man, who was well dressed, approached several visitors, and, raising his hat with old-fashioned courtesy, said: "Sir, excuse me for one moment. Will you, without asking me any questions, lend me four shillings and give me your name and address—also, if you have any children, the name of your youngest child?" In less than an hour, such was the confidence engendered by this old rogue, that he induced several people to lend him the four shillings. The little touch of mystery seems to have been the secret.

This system reminds me curiously of another method largely used in Venezuela. This country has some strange laws, one of which is that, if one person owes another money, he can be arrested at the demand of the creditor—if he fails to pay when asked. Thus it is quite possible for a man to approach a total stranger in the street and say: "Pay me the twenty dollars you owe me." The stranger would naturally say: "But I don't owe you any money." Then the swindler—for such, of course, he is—would call the nearest policeman and say to him: "This man owes me twenty dollars for a long time and refuses to pay me. I want him arrested." The policeman is quite in order in arresting, and the stranger, probably a helpless foreigner, frequently offers to pay half the money that he may escape jail. The swindler accepts the offer, hands some of the money to the policeman for his help in the matter, and walks off.

These street swindlers are quite common. They made quite a sound livelihood out of Americans, who were not particularly liked in the country, and had no desire to see the inside of South American prisons.

A Redmond Statue.

It is fitting that a statue of the late Mr. John Redmond should be placed in one of the rooms at Westminster which he frequented for many years as leader of the Irish Party.

Mr. Percy Malcolm Stewart, the donor of the bust, is the son of Mr. Halley Stewart, of Harpenden, Herts., who was a close friend of Redmond. Mr. Halley Stewart, who is now 93 years of age, was the founder of the Hastings and St. Leonard's Times, and he took a prominent part in Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule campaign. Both he and his son have been prominent in the industrial world, the son being chairman of the Cement Makers' Federation.

The bust, which has been accepted by the Speaker of the House of Commons, will be the third erected at Westminster in memory of an Irish parliamentary leader. The existing specimens represent Burke and Grattan. The Redmond bust is the work of an Irish sculptor, Mr. Doyle-Jones.

Abigail Greenfield's Letter.

On the 8th of June in the year that followed the opening venture of the Royal Dublin Society, Abigail Greenfield wrote from Dairy Hill to the Committee, urging the claims of amateur cheese-makers. She had many suggestions to make, and a copy of her letter may be seen in the National Library, in Kildare street. In the course of the suggestions she makes one that must surely have caused much heart-burning to housewives if it had been practised. "I propose that among the Rules and Instructions to be given on the occasion this Article may be inserted. That if at any time hereafter the Mistress of a house (unless she be a citizen or is above the Business of a good Housewife) shall neglect or refuse the Observance of what shall be so laid down by the Board, that then and there the cleverest Dairymaid who truly understands her business shall be admitted sometimes to sit at the table and to pare a bit of cheese for her Master, to shew him her fine performance, who for his own benefit will be very apt to encourage diligent servants, and further to stir up all Female spirits to emulation and Industry. I wish there were a law to hinder all country girls (except good spinners) from being courted or married until they understand the business of the house."

Irish "Hobbies."

The advent of the Horse Show reminds me that Irish horses were valued even during the Middle Ages. In those far-off days our "hobbies," as they were then called, were shipped not only to England, but to the Continent. Back in the reign of Charles the Second no fewer than four thousand horses were exported from Ireland in one year.

To show the activities of Continental horse-buyers in Ireland two hundred years ago, I might quote an advertisement—the first of its kind—which appeared in Faulkner's Dublin Journal for June 15th 1734. It runs: ". . . Captain James Borne, Master of Horse to his most Christian Majesty, intends to be in the City of Dublin by the 20th of this instant June, 1734 (wind and weather permitting), in order to purchase horses for the use of his said Majesty. All gentlemen and others who have any fine Hunters, either Mares or Geldings, between 14 and 15 hands high, to dispose of may inquire for the said . . . who will treat with them for the same and give them all reasonable encouragement."

QUIDNUNC.

FREE STATE TROUT ANGLERS.

An association, known as the "Irish Free State Trout Anglers' Federation," was formed at a largely attended meeting held in the offices of the Dublin Fishery Conservators, 110 Grafton street, last night. Mr. J. B. Murphy (Clones) presided, and most of the trout angling associations in the Free State were represented, or had written expressing their desire to participate in the activities of the Federation.

The objects of the newly formed body are the improvement and furtherance of trout angling in the Free State, and the membership is open to all approved angling associations.

Dr. R. P. McDonnell (Dublin) was elected President of the Federation; Mr. L. Gaffney (Dublin), secretary, and Mr. C. H. Caulfield (Dundalk), treasurer.

It was decided that a committee should be formed, consisting of the President, Treasurer, Secretary, four Vice-presidents—one from each province—and one representative of each of the affiliated associations.

IRISH FLYING NEWS.

FIRST HOME-TRAINED WOMAN PILOT.

GETTING READY FOR AIR PAGEANT.

NIGHT FLYING AT BALDONNEL.

BY OUR AIR CORRESPONDENT.

The distinction of being the first woman to train and qualify in Ireland as a pilot has fallen to Miss Shamrock Trench, the daughter of Professor Trench, of Trinity College, Dublin, who, as a member of the Irish Aero Club, completed her full course of training in seven weeks, at the end of which she secured her certificate.

Although in her early twenties, Miss Trench is just over ten days old as a pilot. I have heard nothing but praise for her splendid performance, which, in the world of flying, is a very meritorious one. It is, indeed, a big feather in her cap, and one of which she can justly be proud.

It also speaks well for the skill of Mr. J. Elliott, the instructor of the Irish Aero Club. Mr. Elliott, it might be mentioned, is a young man, with a first-class record, who says little but does much.

Miss Trench, I was told at Baldonnel Aerodrome, which is the headquarters of the Irish Aero Club, is what is known as a born pilot, and now that she has obtained her "A" licence, she is going to train for her "B," or passenger, licence. With a "B" licence Miss Trench will be able to carry passengers for hire or otherwise.

Miss Trench is well-known in artistic and theatrical circles in Dublin, and her many friends will be pleased to hear of her latest achievement.

The Weather and The Air Pageant

The weather for some months past has been none too favourable for the flying activities of the Irish Aero Club, but, nevertheless, the attendances each day, particularly over the week-ends, have been excellent. There are now eighteen pilot members of the club, and this number is likely to be added to considerably before the summer and autumn are out; for a large number of members are training for their licences.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the weather will be fine for the air pageant which will be held on Saturday week. If the weather is unfavourable on that day, it may be possible to postpone the pageant to the following day, Sunday, but it is to be hoped that no such contingency will arise. All the members of the club are working wholeheartedly in the cause of the pageant, and they are enlisting the help of their friends in that worthy cause.

The organisation for the event has now been in progress for several weeks, and particular care is being given to the working details. On Monday, Dr. Pepper and Mr. A. C. Woods were out in the club machines inspecting the course over which the air race will be flown.

On his return, Mr. Woods gave a masterly exhibition of stunt flying, at which he is now becoming quite an expert.

Night Flying at Baldonnel.

I hear that work has at last been started in equipping Baldonnel Aerodrome with the lighting apparatus necessary for night flying at the aerodrome. The need for the installation of this apparatus has long been felt. Governments are usually slow, but the Free State Government has been more than usually slow in carrying out a work that is far more necessary for civil aviation in this country than even for military aviation. After several years of delay and postponement a sum of £6,000 was set aside last year for this purpose, but a year passed before the work was put in hands.

There is no information as to when the installation of this apparatus will be completed, but it is hoped that it will be ready for the winter.

As Baldonnel is the recognised Customs aerodrome for the Free State, facilities for night flying are very necessary.

When the installation is complete the whole aerodrome will be lit up at night, when required, by red and white lights. The red lights will mark the boundaries of the aerodrome, all the buildings on it, and any dangerous obstacles on the aerodrome itself. In addition to one or two powerful flood lights fixed on the roofs of the hangars, there will be a moveable flood-light on a lorry, which will be stationed on the aerodrome in such a position that the beam will flow with the direction of the wind, and will light the actual ground on which the landing is to be made.

The apparatus will be used for military, as well as civil, aviation purposes. Night-flying is the one important aspect of military aviation that has been neglected in the Irish Army Air Corps up to the present.

VOYAGE OF NAUTILUS POSTPONED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

OSLO, Tuesday.

Sir Hubert Wilkins has postponed his departure for the North Pole in his submarine Nautilus until to-morrow morning, or possibly a later date.

M. Slav Omir Czervinski, Polish Minister of Education, died yesterday of heart failure, following an operation.

PRETTY WEDDING AT GODSTONE.

LIEUT. R. CASEMENT, R.N., AND MISS E. K. GREENWELL.

The marriage took place on Tuesday, July 28th, at St. Nicholas's Church, Godstone, of Lieutenant Roddie Casement, R.N., second son of Vice-Admiral and Mrs. J. M. Casement, of Cronroe, Ashford, County Wicklow, and Miss Elisabeth Kathleen Greenwell, third daughter of Sir Bernard and Lady Greenwell, of Marden Park, Godstone, Surrey. Bishop De Salis officiated, assisted by the Rev. O. A. Hunt.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a simple gown of ivory satin, the high-waisted bodice having a draped neckline, and the full skirt forming a fan-shaped train at the back. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls and orange blossom, and she carried a sheaf of lilies. She was attended by two pages, Master John McClintock (her cousin) and Master Richard Boughey, and by five bridesmaids—Miss Margaret and Miss Ruth Greenwell (her sisters), Miss Verona Greenwell and Miss Barbara Daniell (her cousins), and Miss Susan Charrington.

The pages wore long trousers of blue linen, with frilled shirts of white silk, and the maids wore ankle-length dresses of hydrangea-blue chiffon, the close-fitting bodices having small fichus, finished with posies of blue chiffon, and belts of sapphire-blue velvet ribbon. They had wreaths of shaded blue velvet roses, and carried bouquets of red roses. Lieutenant J. J. Casement, R.N., was best man to his brother, and, like the bridegroom, wore full dress uniform.

Lady Greenwell afterwards held a reception at Marden Park, and then the bride and bridegroom left for the honeymoon in Scotland, the bride wearing a green dress and coat of wool marocain, with a close-fitting feather-trimmed felt hat to match.

Amongst those present were:—Kathleen Lady Greenwell, Major and Mrs. H. F. McClintock, Colonel and Mrs. Robert McClintock, the Hon. Mrs. John McClintock, Mrs. H. M. West and the Misses West, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Daniell, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Strutt, Sir George and Lady Boughey, Sir Frederick and Lady Kenyon, Lady Tritton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leveson Gower, Sir Richard and Lady Butler and the Misses Joan and Doreen Butler, Sir Robert and Lady Johnson, the Rev. F. and Mrs. Leveson Gower, Mrs. C. M. Crompton-Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Aynesley Greenwell, the Hon. Griselda O'Brien, the Hon. Lily French, Mr. and Mrs. Barkam French, Mrs. Roger Casement, Miss Casement, Miss Tottenham, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Otway-Ruthven, Miss Ethel Halpin, Colonel and Mrs. Arthur Kane and Miss Kane, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Gervers, Brigadier and Mrs. Gervers, Sir Samuel and Lady Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Porter, Captain and Mrs. Kuel, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rivière and Miss Rivière, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gervers and the Misses Gervers, Countess Jellicoe, Vice-Admiral and Mrs. Mitchell, Rear-Admiral and Mrs. French, Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Austin, Captain and Mrs. Dannreuther, Captain and Mrs. Royle, Commander and Mrs. Sandwith, Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Huntington-Whiteley.

There were many handsome presents, including silver candelabra from the employés on the Marden Park estate, and a silver salver from the tenant farmers on the Marden Park estate; also a silver hot-water jug from the staff at Cronroe.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON WINS KING'S CUP.

KING AND QUEEN WATCH THE RACE.

The King and Queen spent much of their time on the deck of the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert at Cowes yesterday, and from there they watched the race for the King's Cup—the most important event of the week—in the Royal Yacht Squadron Regatta.

Much disappointment was felt by the crowds on the promenade that the King's yacht, Britannia, did not race for the King's Cup owing to the death of her second mate, who was washed overboard on Monday.

The race was won by Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V. Mr. H. A. Andrea's Candida came in second and Mr. Hugh F. Paul's Astra was third.

The only other yacht to finish was Mr. Henry Sutton's Moonbeam.

Scores of flimsy summer frocks were drenched yesterday by a sudden shower, and yachtsmen were soaked through before they had time to pull on their oilskins so unexpected was the deluge.

HORSE SHOW VISITORS.

Twelve hundred passengers arrived by mail boat at Kingstown yesterday. The majority of the visitors have come to attend the Horse Show.

At Holywood Petty Sessions, Robert Wightman, Ballyrobert, who was summoned for riding a bicycle so furiously as to cause injury to a pedestrian, and for riding on a footpath, was fined five shillings on each of the two summonses.

THE ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY'S HORSE SHOW.

THE EXHIBITS REVIEWED.

THOROUGHBREDS, HUNTERS AND HARNESS CLASSES.

A SPLENDID COLLECTION OF HORSES.

The Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show was opened at Ballsbridge yesterday.

The following is a review of the various classes and entries:—

THE THOROUGHBREDS: SIRES.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL McKIE, and Mr. George Smithwick were the judges of the thoroughbred classes which, as usual, were the occupants of the jumping enclosure during the forenoon. The stallions came first, and Mr. William Burke's Gone Cold by Westward Ho out of Icy Cup by Cupbearer, was the winner, and deservedly so. He is massive, and short-backed, and unusually muscular. Last season was his first at the stud, and he has quickly put on what it is convenient to term "characteristics" appropriate to his occupation. He made his début in the Show ring yesterday. He is so fully developed in his present rôle that it would not be thought he had been only a comparatively short time out of the trainer's charge. He was good looking when racing (he was owned by Mr. Isidore Blake in Ireland) and he would appear to be ideally suited to propagate a high-class hunter strain. He will endow his progeny with substance and bone. Westward Ho was by Swynford, whose influence has been dominant during the past few seasons through his sons Blandford and Stratford; and it is an interesting circumstance that the Irish sons of Swynford are achieving greater success than Swynford's sons in England and U.S.A. Mr. John Radcliff's Zarope, bay, ten years old, by Zria out of Malope by Myram, was runner-up. He is not so tall as Gone Cold; but they have in common strength, sound bone, and exceptional muscular development. Zarope was a racehorse of merit, and if we are not mistaken he was also a prize-winner at the Stallion Show at Islington. Mr. R. Donaldson's raking Imperial, favouring his sire Roi Herode in his grey colour, was third, which same position he filled last year, and Mr. J. J. O'Donoghue's Brian Water, nine years old, by Spearwort out of Pagan Sacrifice by Cicero, was fourth. Philammon, seven years old, by Sunstar out of Hypathia by Bayardo, owned by Mr. Patrick Lynch, was reserved.

THE YEARLINGS.

The yearling colts were a level lot. The judges did not quickly decide between their relative merits. Their inspection was long and critical; and, no doubt, they made a wise choice by selecting as recipient of the red rosette Mr. D. J. Cogan's iron-grey by Zanoni, out of Polly's Sister by Marten, out of Sister Barry by Buckwheat. The colt has greater range than his sire, who possessed merit on the racecourse, and whose offspring are surely working their way to the front. He is, for instance, represented in Ireland this season by Petoni, who is, as we think, the champion juvenile. She has "lapsed" only once; for a particular reason she was not at her best; but, at the Curragh last month, when resuming her winning sequence, she was short of a gallop or two—yet she spreadeagled her rivals, winning most impressively. Zanoni's yearling is remarkable for fully developed quarters, moulding into muscular second thighs; he is stout of forearm and has an excellent "top." His dam is half sister to two winners. Mr. Patrick Duffy exhibited a very likeable chestnut by Knight of the Garter out of Waltzaway Biddy by Pandion. He is well "fronted," shows good depth, and is conspicuous for quality. He is half-brother to the two years old winner, Biddy's Best. Third prize went to Mr. John J. Mangan's General Sarrail, a bay by Sarrail, out of Llangussie by Llangibby; well moulded, and an attractive mover. There is distinct promise in Mr. P. Sheehan's chestnut by Romus out of Rock Cress by Rochester. The colt's half-brother, Reckless, has won. The brown by Loch Lomond out of Lady Caramel by Amadis, who filled the entry of Mr. Daniel O'Gorman, took fifth prize. He is own brother to Caramond, Ballyscanlon, and Honey Lomond, all of which have been winners. The colt is particularly well bred, for he inherits a blending of the blood of Desmond, Melton, Persimmon (twice) and Bend Or, there being three infusions of St. Simon in the pedigree. We need not delay to argue the academic point made so frequently by many students of breeding, that what they term "an undue proportion of St. Simon blood is not desirable"; for "breeding-by-names" is not a passport to success. The nice chestnut colt entered by Mrs. J. M. O'Connell, and begotten by Sunblaze, out of First Book by Book, was "reserved." We think one of his type requires a good deal of time to reach his full powers, and for this view we find confirmation in his pedigree, which goes back to the hardy native strain of Wild Deer by Red Hart. Wild Deer bred Ingomar, and Wild Deer's daughter, Forest Queen, by Brown Prince, produced Rustic Queen, a good 'chaser, as well as First Dragoon. Then next there came a notable dam, Diane, by Ascetic: Diane's progeny included Troytown, the champion 'chaser of his day in Ireland, England and France, and the champion in these countries is the champion of the world. High-class flat-race strains are introduced close up in the descent of Mrs. O'Connell's yearling. Mr. Cogan's iron-grey by Zanoni, out of Great Pet, did not gain an award; but, of course, attention was given to him by nearly everyone interested in racing, for they did not need reminding that he was an own brother to Petoni, aforementioned. The colt is not so big as his sister; moreover, she is a chestnut. The yearling is of medium size; his limbs have a hard-wearing appearance; his shoulders are well-sloped, and his quarters "reachy." He looks like a racehorse in the making. His own sister began her winning career early, despite that she was, and still is, of ample girth; and when she was capable of proving herself so early, it seems safe to write that her "sharper" brother should be almost certainly quick to come to hand. So much for the yearling colts; and now to deal generally with the yearling fillies.

The judges were undecided for quite a long time between Mr. A. E. Kinahan's brown filly by Roi Herode and Mr. Robert Mullin's brown by Torlonia. Each was looked at many times before the former received "premiership." She is very sweet, unmistakable for her quality, good limbs, good top line, and she is well grown. Her dam, La Neuvaine, a half-sister to two winners, was sired by Friar Marcus out of Hill Shrine by St. Amant, with the desirable combination of Barcaldine—Hermit blood back of her table. Torlonia's daughter is rather more scopey than the winner; she is a mottled brown, having size, is truly balance, and reveals quality. She has sound limbs and noticeable substance. She was from Ethel's Pet by Argosy, out of Reclosure by Fortunio. Ethel's Pet is dam of the two-year-old winner, Ethel's Treasure, as well as of the promising young 'chaser, Eagle's Pet, sold for 1,000 guineas this year. The bay filly by Sir Rowland, out of Half-a-Chance by Ouadi Halfa, sent up by Mr. B. Sheil Walshe, was placed third; she is sturdy. She is a half-sister to three winners. A fine bay by Roi Hero (son of Roi Herode) out of Sweetness by Morena, was fourth. She was bred and was shown by Mr. J. W. A. Harris. Good-bodied, very muscular, and with strong quarters and shoulders, she was favourably noticed by many ring-side critics. Possibly, she may require time fully to develop, but, at any rate, she fills the eye as a yearling of character. Her dam was a good two-year-old winner, and her family is sprung from Lady Morgan, grand-dam of the Co. Limerick-bred English Derby winners, Galtee More and Ard Patrick, and the Irish Derby winner, Blairfinde. As neat a filly as any other is Mr. Gerald Harris's chestnut by Roi Hero, out of The Nymph by Helouan. She is rougey, and is whole coloured except for "a star" on her forehead. Mr. William Morrissey's bay by Santavon (Kircubbin's half-brother) out of Shining Princess by Prince Philip was "reserved"; and amongst those "unplaced," was Mr. Adam Morrow's shapely filly by Jort out of Shining Jug by Juggernaut.

BROOD MARES.

Mr. O'Roarke's Lady Barney, brown, five years old by Martin Lightfoot out of Lady May by Kosmos Bey deserved, no doubt, her first place in the mares' section, for she is a typical hunting dam. Lady Barney, it may be mentioned, is a full sister to the Irish Grand National winner, Impudent Barney, and to Impertinent Barney, who was sold for 650 guineas at Goff's sale on Monday. Mr. Thomas Plunkett's Queen Ant, ten years old, by Count Anthony out of Player Queen by Wiseman was second; and Mr. Thomas F. McCutcheon's big raking grey, Princess Patsey, third. A year ago she was first. Mr. C. S. Malone's Pet Child, thirteen years old, by Zria out of Only Child by Childwick, was fourth. Her colt foal by Sun Yat Sen won first in his class, and in the corresponding fillies' class Mr. Matthew Murphy's bay by Boris (a young horse by Allenby or Poltova out of Mandelayne by Chaucer) out of Miranda's Dream by Ben Alder, was deemed best. She is in miniature a replica of her dam, both being a hard bay colour, Miranda's Dream is short-legged, roomy and wide-quartered.

THE HUNTERS.

Judged by the high level of merit demanded by Dublin Horse Show, it may be said that the section for "made" hunters is surprisingly good, although it is hardly up to the standard of a normal year. Among the five-year-old medium weight carriers, last year's champion, Cottage Pie, appears, but yesterday he was displaced in his class by the great substanced raking bay, Hunter's Moon, from Mr. E. Rohan, Ballinacurra. Cottage Pie has again been entered by Lady Ainsworth, and gave the winner a close run for the money. This was the most interesting occurrence here. It is remarkable, despite the state of the world's finances, this country can stage a show of hunters which is not excelled anywhere, and which continues to afford encouragement to farmers who go in for horse breeding. At the moment, prices for young horses are somewhat on the low side, simply because the people who might purchase such animals have been hard hit by the general depression, and breeders are not all ready to incur the expense of preparing them for show. Consequently, the section for young horses suitable for hunters has suffered substantially in numbers, but there is material sufficient to show that in this connection the country's resources have not been exhausted.

WEIGHT-CARRIERS.

Out of 22 entries in the class for weight-carriers, 15 stone and upwards, six years old or over, Miss Barbara Blackwell, Watford, Herts., came to victory with the free moving stylish bay gelding, Jack Tar, a nice-mannered hunter by Mohacz, and bred by Mr. P. Sleator, Grange Con, Co. Wicklow. A capital second prize taker was forthcoming in Captain J. G. O'Dwyer's Ballyhooley, a raking bay gelding by Calthorp out of a mare by Glenvannon. This is a very good cross-country mount. Another Dublin exhibitor, Mr. H. Herbert Martin, was placed third with Haggis, an aged chestnut gelding with plenty of bone and substance, sired by Archduke. Mrs. R. Cargill, Robinstown, Co. Meath, came fourth with her bay gelding Look Out by Pas Del Norte, while Mr. Robert Cargill was fifth with Master Mark, a grey gelding that did extremely well in all his paces.

There were 21 five-year-old heavy-weight carriers, and pride of place was taken by Mr. J. P. Hogan, Kilmallock, with a compact, good-looking chestnut gelding that covered the ground well. He was sired by Prince Tello, dam by Prince Thorpe. He had a strong rival in Mr. James Barry's Return Ticket, a bay gelding of nice type by Free Return by Spearmint. Next came Blue Aloe, a black gelding, with nice action, by Fly Fisher, dam by Prince Henry. This animal was exhibited by Mr. N. Galway-Greer, Dunboyne. Mr. J. H. Wallace, Shinrone, took fourth place with Big Boy, a well-balanced brown gelding by St. Dunstan.

Thirty-eight tried conclusions in the class for hunters up to 14 to 15 stone, six years old or over, and premier honour went to Mr. John Warwick, the noted Belfast exhibitor, for Gold Star, a six-year-old chestnut gelding that carries himself stylishly and was much admired. Mr. E. W. Hope-Johnstone, of Croom, was second with Jock Scott (late Fisherboy) a dashing six-year-old bay by Flyfisher. Mr. H. Davis Kenny had a satisfactory third prize taker in Sunkist, a chestnut gelding with plenty of quality by Sungirt. A Glasnevin entry, Mr. Michael Nugent's chestnut gelding by Mighty Power, was fourth, while fifth place was occupied by Mr. Roger Shanahan's well-developed Islander.

Five-year-olds up to 14 to 15 stone brought together an entry of thirty-four, and when these were reduced to a short leet a leader of great substance and quality was found in the chestnut mare Baroness, by St. Mel, the property of Mr. Charles Webster, Hollyfort, Gorey. Mr. Justice Wylie's Buttons, a brown gelding that made a good display at Navan last week, was placed second. Third place was filled by Mr. F. McCarthy, Waterford, with Silver Tail, hunted with the Waterford Hounds and Gaultier Harriers. Mr. David Barry, Midleton, followed with his gay-moving chestnut Garryduff. Fifth prize went to Mr. R. T. Forrest, Blarney, for Dignity, a chestnut by O'Donoghue.

Nineteen made up the class for four-year-olds up to 14 to 15 stone, and there was no getting past Mr. Thomas H. W. McKeever's King William, a bay gelding with powerful quarters and limbs, by Kingsborough. Mr. James Barry, Fermoy, had a pleasing second winner in the chestnut gelding Kilboy by Mariut by Fowling Piece. Mr. John Bamber, Ballymena, was third with Devil May Care, a nice-looking chestnut by Barocco. Mr. S. Bailie, V.S., was fourth with Magland.

MEDIUM-WEIGHT HUNTERS.

The first class of medium weights to come under notice was for geldings up to 13 to 14 stone, six years old or over. Here there were forty-one entries, and the red rosette was awarded to Mrs. H. Davis Kenny's George B. a chestnut with a fine back and well-placed limbs. He is a nice mover and was sired by Vliko. With a well-built bay that has hunted with the County Limerick hounds Mr. J. P. Hogan, Kilmallock, was second, while Mr. E. Rohan's brown The Swallow was third, fourth going to Mr. W. A. McCaldin, Banbridge, for his well-trained bay Franco.

Heading the thirty-four five-year-old geldings up to 13 to 14 stone stood Mr. Eamonn Rohan's well-brought-out brown, Hunter's Moon. He shows good action in all his paces, and fills the eye well. With last year's champion, Cottage Pie by Cottage, out of a mare by Reynard, Lady Ainsworth was second. Third place was filled by Mr. James Barry, Fermoy, with Dennis, an attractive chestnut by Iron Hand, while Mr. N. Galway-Greer's Red Robin, a chestnut by Mohacz by Soliman, was fourth.

Mares five years old or over up to 13 to 14 stone numbered twenty-eight, and were led by the dashing brown, Rosebud by Rosewreath, from Mr. Roger Shanahan, Kilmacthomas. The runner-up was The Spinster, a brown by Bachelor's Jap, the property of Mrs. Filgate, Ardee. Mr. William Donaldson, Glaslough, County Monaghan, was third with White Heather, a good-coloured chestnut by Stick in the Mud. Next came Miss O. M. Creagh, of County Clare, with Wirey Vixen, a bay daughter of Reynard by Red Prince II. A Lucan exhibitor, Mrs. C. D. Evans was fifth with Veronica.

Twenty-one paraded in the class for four-year-old geldings up to 13 to 14 stone, and here Mr. N. Galway-Greer took the lead with Killadoon, a bay of fine hunter type by Carnacross by Tredennis. The Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Castleknock, provided a useful second-prize taker in Ballinaclasha, a County Cork-bred chestnut by Ben Alder by Cyllene. Mr. Thomas Keating, Cahir, occupied third place with his well-knit chestnut, Mighty Man, by Mighty Power. Fourth prize went to Mr. J. G. Crampton, Colbinstown, County Kildare, for Sunbeam, a chestnut by Sungirt, while Mr. Justice Wylie's W.W.K. by Fitzrichard was fifth.

In a small class for four-year-old mares up to 13 to 14 stone, Mr. Thomas Keating's chestnut, More Power, came to victory. Mr. D. Collen, Portadown, followed with the bay, Rose Marie, while Mr. Joseph Laverty was third with the chestnut, Noble Girl.

THE LIGHT-WEIGHTS.

Ring III., wherein the light-weight hunter classes are judged, is always one of the busiest centres of the Show on the first day. It is, usually, the last to be occupied, and this was again the case this year, judging not being over until well after 6 p.m.

Was there any falling off in the standard of exhibits? There were ring-side critics who held that there was, and others who contradicted this opinion flatly. On the whole it was a matter of personal opinion, and how men differ over horses! One good judge of hunters, by the way, was positive that the light-weights which came into the right were up to the best average of Dublin Horse Shows.

The judges were—Major Gordon B. Foster, and Major W. Massey. They began with a strong class of hunter geldings, six years old and upwards, up to 12 to 13 stone, and gave the principal award to the Hon. Mrs. Nigel Baring for the six years old bay, Dunstaffnage, by King's Herald out of Queen of the Castle, by Cabra Castle. The second went to Mr. G. R. Whitmore for the six years old bay, Wellington Bridge, by Sandstone, dam by Agar. Mr. W. Toomey was third with Freckles, a six years old grey, by Flying Hackle out of a grey mare by Eager. Mr. Jos. Laverty was fourth with the bay or brown, Jack, six years, and Mr. J. B. McRoberts fifth with the chestnut, Whim, by Perimac. There were four other ring honours, the "reserve" going to Mr. J. P. Hogan for Cocktail; a v.h.c. to Mrs. H. D. Jameson for Napoleon; a h.c. to Mr. M. J. Hyde for an unnamed chestnut, and a c. to Mr. M. McMahon for Sweet Lag.

The equivalent class (Class 19) for mares was not so strong numerically. Mr. J. B. McRoberts won it with Near Side, an aged bay, whose pedigree did not appear in the catalogue. Mr. J. W. Murland was placed second with Sunny Bride, a bay, seven years, by Golden Sun—Merry Match, by Matchmaker. Miss Joan Manley got the third for Vanity, an aged bay, by Longtown—Kilgar, by Cerasus. A fourth and fifth were awarded, the former to Mr. A. Wall for Grey Lady, and the latter to Mr. R. Shanahan for Carrigmorna, by Rosewreath. Mrs. E. T. Boylan received the "reserve" for Chevrette, a six years old bay, and the remaining honours included a v.h.c. to Mrs. J. A. Hornsby for Golden Hen; a h.c. to Mr. J. A. B. Trench for Daffodil, and a commended card to Mr. G. Ferrall for Donna Maria.

A very strong class was that of the hunter geldings, five years old and up to 12 to 13 stone. Mrs. H. Kenny won it with the bay, Another Prospect, by Rowland—Mithra Belle. Mr. W. A. McCaldin was second with Park Lane, by Convert Rhue, and Mr. Leo O'Donnell third with White Heather, by Superstition by Tredennis. Judge Wylie showed the fourth prize winner, the bay, Changeling, and Mr. R. Laverty took fifth with the chestnut, Thornburn. The "reserve" went to Mr. F. Browne for Ballinalee, by Hopeful Bachelor, and other awards were:—A v.h.c. to Mr. P. J. Roche for Morocco, a h.c. to Miss O. M. Creagh for Polman, and a c. to Mr. N. Galway-Greer for Wiley Post.

The five-year-old hunter mares were a goodly and good-looking lot, and Miss O'C. McNeile headed the class with the ch. Elizabeth, by Ben Alder, dam by Kandahar. The second went to Mr. J. A. Jackson for Saucie, a br. by Galroy, and third to Miss O'Connor for Bobine, a bay by Pavillon—Landgrave. Mrs. B. Laverty was fourth with Prospect, a chestnut by Bee Fast—Turkey Trot; and Mr. J. F. Hoey took fifth with a bay by Grefelda. The "reserve" went to Mr. M. McMahon for Sweetheart. Other awards were:—A v.h.c. to Mr. J. Heffernan for Mighty Atom, a h.c. to Mr. J. Bamber for Amanta, and a c. to Mr. C. Roche for Freckles, by Single Stick.

A very good class was that for four-years-old geldings, and it was headed by Mr. G. B. Caruth's Corbally, a br. by Castile—Valiant Girl. Mr. Justice Wylie showed the second prize winner, Martin, a br. by Martin Lightfoot, dam by The Ant. The third went to Mr. J. G. Crampton for Sunray by Sungrit; the fourth to Mr. J. Barry for Catspaw by Iron Hand, and the fifth to Mr. J. Laverty for Castlefin, by Tinode. Mrs. J. D. Barret was "reserved" with Good Luck, by Drinmore, and other awards were:—A v.h.c. to Mr. A. Willis for Sunshine; a h.c. to Mr. H. Kenny for Tom Gleeson, and a c. to Mr. T. Keating for Flash Ben.

The four-years-old fillies were not as numerous. Mr. R. Collen showed the winner in Faith, a bay. Captain R. A. Chambers was second with Village Gossip, and Mr. J. Fenton third with Iron Shoe. The Hon. Mrs. Bramwell was fourth with Red Beryl, and the "reserve" went to Mr. J. Bradley for Queen Maeve.

HUNTER BROOD MARES AND FOALS.

Quite a good small class was that for mares with foal at foot likely to produce weight-carrying hunters. It was judged in Ring IV., and the principal award fell to Mr. Leo Charls for Daisy II. by Southannan—Daisy. Mr. W. Phelan's Peace Time, by Moccana—The Spot, was second, and the Earl of Rosse's Miss Kirk, by Kirkheaton, dam by St. Aidan, third; Red Damsel, by Young Red Prince II.—Servitor, brought the fourth to Mr. P. McKeon, and also a special prize of £10 for best mare in class shown by a farmer under £50 valuation. The reserve went to Mrs. Joan de Sales La Terriere for the Ch. Elizabeth by Melleray.

There were two classes for foals the produce of mares exhibited in above class, and Mr. Leo Charls, Mr. H. E. Phipps and Mrs. de Sales La Terriere took the prizes respectively in that devoted to colts. Lady Brooke won the filly class, and Mr. W. Phelan the second award.

The class for mares six years old and under with foal at foot, or stinted and in foal to a T.B. stallion, was won by Mr. S. S. Owens with May Morn by Thory—Lady Flashlight, and this exhibitor took the special prize of £10 award to the best mare shown by a farmer under £50 valuation. The second award went to Mr. W. Byrne for High Gate by King O'Malley out of a Cabra Castle mare, and third to Mr. P. Quinn for Carlingford, a three-year-old, by King's Zenith. Mrs. J. Geraghty was fourth with Morceau by Righ Mor—Lady Hackle, and Miss A. Rourke received the reserve for Ballinakill Girl, four years, by Young Red Prince II. out of a mare by Major Simmons.

The young horses likely to make hunters were judged in this ring. In the class for three-year-old geldings, Lady Ainsworth won with Sir Francis by Francis Joseph—Fairest Lady, and was awarded the No. 12 cup.

SPEED

The speed of a fleeting animal gives a thrill that cannot quite be captured from speed in any other form.

Speed in the kitchen gives a different kind of thrill—the thrill of more time for pleasure when the work is done.

Electrical equipment not only makes kitchen work a pleasure itself but releases the housewife for hours and hours of leisure from kitchen cares.

THE JUMPING.

LADIES TO THE FORE.

IRELAND WINS FIRST OF MILITARY EVENTS.

THE delightful weather was no where more appreciated than in the jumping enclosure, and the excellent conditions under foot contributed towards the high standard of jumping in the two competitions which were decided. Many improvements have been made in the enclosure since last year, and the accommodation for spectators has been considerably increased. It looked as if the attendance was well up to, if not even better than, the usual standard of an opening day.

IRISH OFFICER WINS FIRST EVENT.

All the nations who will participate in the International Jumping competition on Friday were represented in the Military High Jumping competition over two stone walls and poles, and the standard of jumping was so good that some very fine performances failed to receive recognition. After one round had been disposed of, Quirinal, representing France; Top Twig (Canada), Finghin (Ireland), Winzige (Germany), Ardrath (Italy), Hey Diddle Diddle (England), and Vidar (Sweden) were left in to compete for the five prizes. It was the first occasion upon which German officers competed, and the fine performance of Oberlieutenant Momm's Winzige in the first round was watched with particular interest. In the next round, however, he had a couple of faults, and it was at once apparent that the competition rested between Finghin and Ardrath, the representatives of Ireland and Italy respectively. Captain D. Corry rode Finghin, and the announcement that he had been awarded first prize was loudly applauded. Second prize went to Ardrath, who is Irish-bred, and England's representative Hey Diddle Diddle, was placed third and Vidor (Sweden) fourth. It was noted that while many of the competitors from foreign countries were bred in this country, those of the Gremans, the Swedes and the French were home-bred.

LADY RIDER'S SUCCESS.

Competition A, which followed, was over the full course, and brought out fifty-seven competitors, the majority of them being well-known performers at Ballsbridge. In this instance ladies figured amongst the riders, and did so with remarkable success, the first three awards falling to their share. Eighteen horses survived the first round, and these going round singly again the judges reduced the field to three—namely, Swastika Rose and Bluecross, both ridden by Miss Peggy Morgan Byrne, and Twinkle, ridden by Mrs. A. Wall. Miss Morgan Byrne's mounts won first and second prizes, and Twinkle, third, fourth award going to Lieutenant Thomas F. Quinn on Millionaire. So excellent was the standard of jumping that the judges exercised their discretionary right to award seven additional £5 prizes to Cherry, Golden Wonder, Darkie, Killinick, Genevieve, Mona and Says You. Amongst past prize-winners to fail to get recognition was The Nugget, who must hold something approaching a record for the number of jumping prizes won at previous shows. It was a remarkably fine display of jumping, on the whole, and not a single fall had to be recorded.

At the conclusion of the first round it was announced that Quirinal (France), Top Twig (Canada), Finghin (Ireland), Winzige (Germany), Ardrath (Italy), Hey-Diddle Diddle (England) and Vidar (Sweden) had gone round without fault, and were ordered to jump off for the prizes. Finghin this time made another faultless round, and Ardrath was little behind. The others made faults. The awards were made as follow:—

COASTAL BOROUGH HOUSING.

At the monthly meeting of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council, held last night, Mr. J. M. Devitt (Chairman) presiding, it was stated that the complete report on housing in the Borough would be submitted to the next meeting of the General Purposes Committee, to be held on next Thursday week, when the matter would be discussed.

The Chairman, the Manager, Mr. P. J. Hernon, and Councillors McCabe and Dooge were appointed to represent the Council at the annual conference of the Association of Municipal Authorities, to be held in the City Hall, Dublin, on the 15th and 16th September next.

In connection with the signing of a lease for a plot of land at Williamstown, for a period of fifty years at a yearly rent of £20, to Thomas Williams, it was mentioned that a garage had been erected on the land.

The Chairman mentioned that this was one of the legacies left them by the Blackrock Council. He thought that it was a great pity that any portion of the sea front between Merrion Gates and Williamstown should be leased for any purpose other than a public park. He hoped that the remainder of that reclaimed land would be preserved for the uses of a public park.

Votes of sympathy were passed to Mr. John Byrne, ex-Councillor, on the death of his father, and to the relatives of the late Mr. John Mooney, ex-Town Clerk, Blackrock.

THE BLOODSTOCK SALES.

BIG FALL IN THE PRICE OF YEARLINGS.

104 REALIZE 6,757 GUINEAS : TOP FIGURE OF 410.

The bloodstock sales held by Messrs. Goff in conjunction with the Royal Dublin Society's Horse Show commenced at the Sale Paddocks, Ballsbridge, yesterday. Although business was fairly brisk, prices were moderate all through the day, the top figure being 410 guineas, paid by Mr. Hanley, the Epsom trainer, for a brown colt by Achtoi out of Allets, the property of the Pollardstown Stud. Allets was a good performer on the Turf, winning, among other races, the Phœnix Plate, which is one of the principal events for two-year-olds in Ireland.

Mr. R. More O'Ferrall gave 310 guineas for a bay colt by Achtoi out of Myrrhe II., a daughter of the French sire, Bruleur, and Mr. Hanley secured for 180 guineas another of Mrs. P. P. Gilpin's yearlings, a grey colt by Son and Heir out of Charming Bride. The Curragh trainer, Mr. M. C. Collins, went to 250 guineas for a brown colt by Craig-an-Eran out of Blencathra, while Mr. C. Rogers paid 200 guineas for Mr. G. S. Webb's Some Daw, a brown filly by Jackdaw out of Reprieved.

During the day 104 lots were sold for 6,757 guineas, compared with last year's first day figures of 116 lots for 11,394 guineas.

FASHIONS AT THE SHOW.

TRIM SUITS OF TWEED.

FROCKS AND BOWLERS.

The beautiful summer weather which marked the opening day of the Horse Show was fully appreciated during the afternoon, when shortly before 2.30 p.m. visitors began to make their way to the jumping enclosure, where the first item on the programme was the parade of four-in-hand coaches. These formed a striking comparison with modern methods of travel by road. The delightful old-fashioned lettering on some of the coaches, together with the music of the coaching horns which heralded their approach, drew much applause from the spectators of this unique display.

Women came dressed in every conceivable attire, but the most favoured garb were trim suits of tweed, which featured a slightly flared skirt allied with a sleek fitting belted coat, and worn with the popular "bowler," either trimmed with tiny bunches of feather quills or a long spray of ostrich plumes. There were quite a number of flowing chiffon and silk dresses, and there was the usual sprinkling of country folk, who wore well-cut tweeds with an air.

Among those noticed in the gathering were:—Lady Weldon, who wore a black satin toque with her smart black suit; Lady Eva Forbes was in a navy cloth suit, with a dark red felt hat; Miss Gretta Cameron's flowered dress was worn under a black coat, with a hat of biscuit-coloured straw; Lady Helena Fitzwilliam chose a small scarlet béret to wear with her grey suit; the Hon. Cynthia Baring was in a béige ensemble, with a small hat of the same shade. Lady Haldane Porter was attired in black, with a smart black hat; while Miss Porter wore a black hat with her green-striped frock. Lady Greer was wearing a béige suit, with a smart straw hat to tone; Miss Evelyn Baird wore a fawn-coloured coat over her frock to match, while her darker brown hat was of taffeta; Lady Longford was in a frock of black and white spot silk, with a small black béret and a coat of green mixture tweed; Miss R. Brooke was attired in a black and green crêpe-de-Chine toilette, with a green hat to match. Black and white spot crêpe-de-Chine was worn by the Hon. Mrs. Barry, with a smart black banku hat, while Miss FitzGerald-Kenney's picture hat of lilac chip straw was worn with a blue flowered frock. Mrs. T. STAGE COACH DAYS.

OLD-TIME PAGEANT AT BALLSBRIDGE.

JIM SELBY'S RECORD RUN RECALLED.

It is a long cry from the Royal Dublin Horse Show of 1931 to the "good old coaching days" of years ago, but yesterday afternoon it was easy for one, while sitting in the enclosure at Ballsbridge and drawing discreetly on the imagination, to conjure up visions of the past.

The four-in-hands were the novel attraction of the day for those whose interests lie in the farmyard or out of it. To see the prancing horses and the beautifully-polished coaches swinging round the track was a sheer delight. The horses, with their well-groomed backs gleaming and glistening in the warm sunlight, gave one the impression of vanity, the kind of vanity a girl must feel when she slips into the newest creation from Paris.

They held their heads high, stepped with perfect precision, and altogether the five teams, as they swept round and round before the judges, made one of the prettiest—and, indeed, quaintest—pictures ever seen on that jumping ground.

THE SPACIOUS DAYS.

It may not have meant so much to the people of the younger generation, excepting those who have enjoyed the delights of Charles Dickens in his Pickwick Papers, but older people on the stands became quite enthusiastic over the display. One had only to blot out the crowds and the stands, and soon could be seen the coaches rumbling along leafy roads to the accompaniment of the pleasant sounds of the horn blown by the guard. Incidentally, the guard on the present day railway trains is actually a "carry-over" from the coaching days, a fact unknown to most people. The old-time costumes of the drivers and passengers, who looked very precise in their top hats and severely-cut dark jackets and trousers, gave an atmosphere to the spectacle. Indeed, they were indispensable in the preservation of the illusion. There they sat, bolt upright on the hard seats, and one had again to call on the powers of imagination to decide whether they were meant to be enjoying the sights of the landscape which was not there or were simply bored to distraction by the noisy chatter of the nearest passenger. They were complete actors in a memorable pageant of the spacious days.

THE AWARDS.

The competitive interest between the teams was not sensed by the spectators, who really cared little for the opinions of the judges, so pleased were they with the entire display.

It might be well to say that the team of bays owned by Mr. Sidney Allen, of Moorcourt, Stroud, near Gloucester, was given first prize, and the team of blacks entered by Mr. Bertram W. Mills, of Pollard's Wood, Chalfont St. Giles, Bucks., second prize.

The team of bays attached to the "Comet" road coach, and entered by Messrs. W. J. Smith, Ltd., of 21 Little Cadogan place, London, S.W.1., was placed third.

The original coach in which Jim Selby made the record run from London to Brighton and back (104 miles), in seven hours fifty minutes, was entered by Mr. F. H. Unwin, of Tewkesbury, and drawn by a team of bays, but was unplaced. So was another team of bays entered by Mr. Mills, and shown to the "Old Times" coach which ran on the London-Brighton road.

This display of coach driving, which is certain to remain one of the popular attractions during the Show, will be given each day, and will serve to bring back the lost glamour of the past into the whirlwind of the present.

Co. Cork Murderer Executed.

Scenes Outside Mountjoy Jail.

David O'Shea, the Knocknaloman murderer, was executed at Mountjoy Jail yesterday morning. Half an hour before the execution, which was fixed for eight o'clock, about two hundred persons—mostly women—were assembled outside the prison, where they remained until the customary notice was affixed to the gate.

At the inquest, which was conducted at the prison by Dr. Byrne, the City Coroner, evidence as to the manner of death was given by the Governor, Mr. Sean Kavanagh. Dr. B. Hackett testified that death was instantaneous. A verdict that the sentence of death was carried out according to law was returned.

Mass was celebrated in O'Shea's cell before the execution by the Very Rev. Canon MacMahon.

Housing The Working Classes.

The Rents Problem.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

At to-day's meeting of the Belfast Corporation, Alderman Midgley said, that the Estates Committee should let the Council know what their intentions were for securing further sites for houses for working people. Seaview was one of the best examples of what could be done on a moderate scale—his only criticism being that the houses were rather small—and he hoped that the committee would not rest on their laurels, but go on building more houses. There was an urgent need for a great housing crusade. In the ward he represented (Dock) there were hundreds, if not thousands, of houses that were unfit for human habitation. The working classes should be properly housed and the slum areas wiped out.

Councillor Boyle suggested that, instead of building new houses at a distance, they should renovate the old houses, and let the tenants remain in them where they were living convenient to their work and had a penny tram fare.

Alderman McCurdy remarked that the Estates Committee deserved credit for the Seaview site, and he hoped they would get more sites to bring the people out from the slums. But the Corporation must build houses at rents which the people could pay. If the rents were reduced at the Whiterock site he was sure there would not be an unoccupied house.

Alderman Byrne was delighted to see the members taking such an interest in housing. It was, however, a very severe blow to the committee the reduction of the subsidy. If it had been continued they would have been able to build such a number of houses that the landlords would have been obliged to reduce rents to what the people could pay. The committee would do all they possibly could to provide the working people with houses, but the unfortunate thing was that at present, owing to unemployment, the people were not able to pay the necessary rents.

Boy Drowned In Shannon.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Tuesday.

While bathing in the Shannon near the railway bridge at Longpavement, above Limerick, to-day, Thomas Hourigan (17), residing at Island road, was drowned. He swam across the river, which is wide at this point, and was returning when he was overcome by the strong receding tide, and sank before some companions could reach him. The body was recovered later. Civic Guards applied first aid, but without avail. An inquest will be held.

THUNDERSTORM ON SOUTH COAST.

FOUR PEOPLE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Four people were stupefied when lightning struck the wireless aerial of a house at Havant during a terrific thunderstorm which broke over Portsmouth and district yesterday afternoon. They were Mrs. Meaby, Mrs. Dunford and a neighbour, and her daughter, who was using a needle at the time.

A cow in a field at Stockheath was killed by lightning.

Many summer-clad women and girl visitors on Southsea beach were caught by the torrential rain and drenched before they could reach shelter.

LORRY JUMPS A BRIDGE.

NINETEEN PERSONS DROWNED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GEORGETOWN, SOUTH CAROLINA, Tuesday.

Seventeen negroes and two whites were drowned yesterday when a lorry, in which they were passengers, ran over the side of a bridge and fell into Sampit River.

HEAVY FLOODS IN BELGIUM.

TRAMWAY SERVICES SUSPENDED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BRUSSELS, Tuesday.

Terrific thunderstorms, accompanied by great downpours of rain, raged in all parts of Belgium last night and this morning. Many districts are inundated, especially in the neighbourhood of Ostend, where there is hardly a cellar that is not full of water.

Lightning struck numerous motor cars and electric trams, doing much damage. Many persons were injured as the result of accidents in the streets through the drivers being blinded by rain.

A cloudburst occurred at Liège. Torrents of water rushed down the steep, tortuous streets, knocking over pedestrians and flooding the cellars. For two hours the tramway service was suspended. There was between two and three feet of water in the streets.

ACTIVITY OF MOUNT ETNA.

OMINOUS SIGNS FOLLOW EARTHQUAKE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ACIREALE, SICILY, Tuesday.

Mount Etna is belching forth clouds of smoke and red-hot cinders following upon an earthquake of some violence last night, and the inhabitants of the villages at its foot are packing their belonging in readiness for flight. No eruption of lava has occurred.

As a result of last night's shock, which followed upon two slighter shocks during yesterday afternoon, a few people are again staying out in the fields to-night. Some hundred houses were damaged, but the dozen or so persons who were hurt by falling masonry have not sustained more serious injury than cuts and bruises. After the first exodus there was little panic.

Money From Sweepstakes.

Position of Waterford Infirmary.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Tuesday.

MR. A. J. PHELAN, Barrister-at-Law, Chairman of the Waterford Infirmary, at to-day's meeting of the Governors, made an important statement in regard to the position of the institution with reference to the receipts from the hospitals' sweepstakes and the possible withdrawal of public bodies' contributions. He said that some people seemed to think that the institution was at present wallowing in gold, and that wealth beyond the dreams of avarice was going to continue to the end of time. That was a great mistake. In the first place, he thought that the time during which the hospital sweeps would continue was limited to four years; secondly, it might be that they had seen the high-water mark of their popularity, as possibly money could not in the future be so easily placed in them. The institution's shares in these sweeps might not be as much as it had been in the past. In any case, it would be depleted to the extent of one-third, because, according to recent legislation, 33⅓ per cent., or one-third, of the total amount applicable to hospitals had been diverted from voluntary hospitals to rate-supported institutions.

THE PRINCIPAL OBJECT.

He would like to call attention to the principal object for which the sweep was inaugurated. It was not to absolve those who, in the first instance, willingly subscribed in the past, nor was it, if he might be allowed to remark, introduced for the purpose of relieving such bodies as corporations, etc., from their budgetary difficulties. It was introduced primarily to relieve hospitals, in the first instance, to get rid of the load of debt under which many of them suffered, and carry out permanent improvements which nearly every voluntary hospital in Ireland had to put off for the want of funds. When that was done and these things were satisfied, then, and then only, would they have to consider what was to be done with the balance. If they had any money then, that might be used to supplement the permanent income of the hospital received from rate-aided and other outside support. The idea seemed to have got abroad that they had more money than they knew what to do with, and that they had at present sufficient money to enable them to do all they wanted to do and dispense with outside support right away. That was an idea which should be tested in order to see how much truth there was in it.

THE POSITION.

In the first place, if they were going to withdraw outside support from the infirmary, the infirmary would have to make provision out of the capital which it had received from the hospitals' sweeps for an amount equivalent to its income. Taking the present rate of investments in first-class Government securities which could be easily realised, they would not get more than 4½ per cent. In other words, for every £100 per annum taken from the infirmary in outside support it meant that the infirmary had to dip into its funds to the extent of £2,200, and thereby deplete the sum which it could otherwise spend on improvements.

Having dealt with the income and expenditure of the local institution and made an estimate of £15,000 for necessary improvements, he went on to show that they would require to invest £40,000 to make up for the amount received from subscriptions, and to make the infirmary safe it would require £70,000 or £80,000 in hand.

He asked the public not to be too quick in concluding that their generosity should be curbed. The infirmary could do with a great deal more money than it had at present.

Municipal Coal Depots.

Belfast Proposal.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

The question of the establishment of municipal coal depôts was raised at to-day's meeting of the Belfast Corporation. When the minutes of the Gas Committee were being considered, Alderman Pierce referred to the fact that the general manager (Mr. W. H. Smith) had recommended the purchase from different firms of a total of 189,000 tons of coal, at an average cost of 21s. 11 0.6d. per ton, which figure, it was pointed out, compared with 22s. 6.57d per ton under existing contracts.

These were days, said the Alderman, when it was necessary to economise in every detail of their transactions. Mr. Smith was to be complimented on the figures he had set out, and also on the fact that he had been able to purchase the supplies at so low an average figure.

The Alderman gave notice of motion to move at the next meeting that coal distributing centres or depôts be established.

Alderman Midgley pointed out that the question of municipal coal depôts had been previously referred to the General Purposes Committee, who turned it down overwhelmingly on the ground that it was a step in the direction of Socialism. On that occasion Alderman Pierce was scared by the talk of Socialism, and did not proceed further. He (the speaker) was very glad of his death-bed repentance now. (Laughter.) He predicted that between the present and the time the question would be debated again the Alderman would not move his resolution at all.

The minutes were adopted.

Secondary School Certificate.

Northern Ministry of Education Examinations.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

The pass lists of the secondary school certificate examinations (No. 1 senior certificate), which were held by the Northern Ireland Ministry of Education, have just been issued. The total number examined was 930, of whom 510 were boys and 420 girls. The total of successes was 611, 336 boys and 275 girls.

A candidate was deprived of the examination for having taken notes into the examination hall. In future years the Ministry may state the name and school of any candidate, or extern student, who is so deprived of the examination.

Cork Assault Charge.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Tuesday.

In the Cork District Court to-day a young man, Joseph O'Sullivan, of Cattle Market street, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, with hard labour, on a charge of assault.

Thomas McBride stated that he was walking along the South Mall on Sunday, when three men, including O'Sullivan, passed him shouting and using bad language. When he remonstrated with them they attacked him.

O'Sullivan stated in evidence that he took no part in the attack, and was trying to prevent the other two men from attacking McBride.

Leave to appeal was granted.

Tramways' Chief.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

The recommendation of the Tramways Committee to appoint Major Robert McIlreavy as general manager and engineer of the Belfast Tramways did not come up at to-day's meeting of the Corporation.

The question of salary will be discussed by the General Purposes Committee to-morrow, and on Monday a special meeting of the Council will be held to make the final appointment.

Belfast Medical Officership.

Lively Debate At Council Meeting.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

THE question of the appointment of a medical officer under the Maternity and Child Welfare Committee was postponed by the Belfast Corporation to-day until the September meeting. The Council, on a poll, decided not to receive at to-day's meeting the minutes of the Committee of last Thursday, in which they recommended the appointment of Dr. Grace K. Pollock, Larne.

The Lord Mayor (Sir Crawford M'Cullagh) presided.

The Committee again sent forward the name of Dr. Pollock for the appointment. Previous recommendations from the Committee in favour of Dr. Pollock had been referred back, allegations of canvassing, in breach of the standing orders of the Council, having been made against her. The Maternity and Child Welfare Committee held an inquiry on Wednesday last into these allegations, and found that they were not sustained, and on the following day they met and re-recommended the appointment of Dr. Pollock.

At to-day's Council meeting the Town Clerk said that it would be necessary to have the permission of the Council to receive it that meeting the minutes of the Maternity and Child Welfare Committee.

Alderman Duff said that he wished to refer the Council to Standing Order 79. "This," added the alderman, "was drafted wisely and well——"

Alderman Pierce—Is this Council to be humbugged by a regular——

The Lord Mayor—Don't start like that so early in the proceedings. Will you, please, sit down?

THE STANDING ORDER.

Alderman Duff said that the standing order was a wise one, and it provided that for the convenience of the whole of the members, of the officers, and of the public generally, unless for the payment of accounts, or in such similar circumstances of emergency, no committee should meet during the month of July, all the work of committees to be carried on under the direction of the head of each department, with the assistance of the Town Clerk or his deputy; but that, if any matter arose which, in the opinion of the Town Clerk or his deputy, ought properly to be placed before a committee for consideration, that officer should report the matter to the chairman, or, in his absence, to the vice-chairman, directing his attention to the calling of a meeting of the committee.

Proceeding, the Alderman said that the minutes referred to by the Town Clerk were of such importance and moment that they should be carefully considered by the Council before passing them. He saw no reason whatever for the suggestion with regard to the matters embodied in the minutes. They should not disregard a standing order which they themselves had made to rule themselves.

UPROAR.

The Lord Mayor—Is it the wish of the Council to proceed and discuss these minutes? (Cries of "Yes" and "No.")

Alderman Pierce—It is unfair to the Council to put the request of this alderman. (Uproar.) This particular minute would have been confirmed in the ordinary way had it not been for the villainous personal attempt——

The rest of the speaker's statement was drowned in the general hubbub that it provoked, and the Lord Mayor rose to rebuke Alderman Pierce and request him to withdraw the statement.

Alderman Pierce declined, and while he was still attempting to address the chamber the Lord Mayor asked would someone move whether or not the minutes be received and discussed.

Alderman Pierce retorted: "It is unfair to someone who would have been appointed here to-day— (interruption)—but for Alderman Duff and Councillor Mrs. Coleman. (Cries of 'Withdraw.') We are not going to be bluffed by Alderman Duff."

Alderman Alexander moved that the minutes of the committee of July 29 and July 30 be received.

Alderman Pierce rose to second the motion, and Councillor Kyle said that an important question had been raised as to standing orders, and he wanted to know was no answer to be given.

Alderman Sir William Turner—What was the emergency that decided this matter?

Alderman Pierce—It was a false charge. It was the emergency.

Alderman Sir William Turner—Such nonsense!

Alderman Alexander—We are paying for nine nurses, with no doctor to look after them.

Alderman Pierce declared that the runner-up to Dr. Pollock in the position was a cousin of Councillor Mrs. Coleman.

A PROBLEM.

Councillor Mrs. Coleman—That's a lie. I ask Alderman Pierce to withdraw that statement, because Dr. M'Daniel's mother's sister is married to a cousin of mine! There is a problem for you. (Laughter.)

Alderman Pierce, in another heated contribution, exclaimed—This is too villainous a thing by the secret conclave party!

Uproar again followed, in which Alderman Nixon was heard to exclaim: "Better leave it over till the weather cools. (Laughter.)

On a poll, it was resolved not to receive the minutes recommending the appointment at that meeting, the voting being nineteen for the motion and twenty-three against.

The minutes bearing on the appointment will, therefore, not come up until the September meeting of the Council.

When the result of the poll was announced,

Alderman Pierce rose excitedly, and, with upheld hand, exclaimed: "May high heavens save this Council from the villainous thing of patronage."

Councillor Kyle drew attention to a record in the minutes of the committee of July 29, and asked what right had a lawyer to decide whether or not a member of the Council had a right to determine a matter in the Corporation? The Council were not going to be intimidated by a lawyer from doing what they thought right.

The Lord Mayor, intervening, pointed out that the minutes in question had been ruled not to be before the meeting, and he added: "Nobody knows it better than yourself, Councillor Kyle."

Too Many Flag D...

Complaint ... Corporation Meeting.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

THAT the number of street collections in the city is, in the opinion of the Police Committee, detrimental to the best interests of Belfast was emphasised in a minute of that Committee which came up for consideration at to-day's meeting of the Belfast Corporation. The minute added a recommendation that the Commissioner of Police be asked to limit such collections annually to a few only of the most deserving cases, and that such collections, if authorised, be limited to one day each.

Alderman Pierce thought this the most disgraceful paragraph that had ever appeared in the civic records. As such the Committee had no power of attorney to hustle a sympathetic public in the way the recommendation suggested. The Committee was responsible for the traffic of the city, but had no responsibility in connection with the collection of money for charitable purposes. He moved that the minute be deleted.

Councillor Clarke Scott seconded, and Alderman H. Midgley said that their Police Committee had less power than such a body in English municipalities, but the Committee was entitled to express a point of view. He agreed with that point of view entirely—the number of flag days was becoming an absolute disgrace.

The amendment was defeated.

Belfast Electricity Undertaking

Criticism of Cable Charges

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Tuesday.

ON the minutes of the Electricity Committee, moved at the meeting of the Belfast Corporation by Alderman Nixon, Councillor McMahon complained of the charges for extension of mains to houses, and said that the citizens should be given some relief. £1 per yard was too high to charge for laying the cables. Last year a net profit of £64,000 was made on the undertaking, and even if they put the cables in for nothing they would have a profit of over £40,000. Why could the Electricity Committee not follow in the footsteps of the Gas Committee and put the mains in free?

Councillor Gordon said that out of twelve applications for main extensions reported in the minutes ten were granted "without guarantees" and two "with guarantees." These two were in working-class districts, and he asked why the difference was made.

Councillor Henderson said that the high charges for putting in mains explained why so many people did not take electricity. He also suggested that consideration should be given to allowing free stoves for cooking and other purposes to users of electricity.

APPLICATIONS.

Alderman McCurdy said that he knew of applications from several districts of the city for electricity installations which had not yet been granted. The reasons given were that the valuation was too small. He hoped the Committee would do something to encourage the people to put in electricity.

Councillor Kilpatrick, Councillor Agnew and Councillor Boyle having supported lower charges,

Alderman Nixon said that there was no fixed fee for putting in a cable. The price was revised in accordance with the cost of the cables and the wages of the men laying them. Something serious occurred on the Old Lodge road because the cable put in about twenty years ago was not a good one. They had to pay a higher price to get better material and secure good workmanship. As to the guarantees, the Committee were bound by law to protect the citizens. The policy of the undertaking was to extend as much as could be done, but before doing that they must have the consent of the landlord and all interested, and a guarantee for the ratepayers, whose money was being expended in the capital put into the cables.

Kilkenny County Council appointed Messrs J. Brophy and A. G. Bowers to give evidence before the Tariff Commission in support of a tariff on the importation of foreign bacon.

IRISH PORTS OF CALL.

RUMOURED CHANGE "IMPROBABLE."

ADVANTAGES OF COBH EMPHASISED.

THE rumours that the trans-Atlantic liner companies had decided to abandon their calling for business at the port of Cobh in future, in favour of Galway, are characterised by Mr. M. J. Hennessy, T.D., as so much idle gossip.

In the course of a conversation with our representative he pointed out that the many facilities which the Port of Cobh offered to the trans-Atlantic liners and the travelling public were convincing evidence of the improbability of such a change. In the present condition of shipping the operating cost—the expeditious handling of ships—is an item of the utmost importance, and there is no port in Ireland or Great Britain so well adapted from this aspect as the Port of Cobh.

Trans-Atlantic liners enter the port with absolute safety in all tides, day or night, in favourable or unfavourable weather conditions. They secure immediate clearance, with never a longer delay than two hours, and only when there is an exceptionally heavy clearance in such delay necessitated. Passengers disembarking are cleared the Customs and in their hotels at Cobh, or on rail for their destination, in fifteen to twenty minutes from the time they board the tender. Very excellent tender and railway facilities are provided, and to passengers embarking at Cobh the Great Southern Railway offer special low rates from all parts of the Free State. It is an undeniable fact that all the advantages for quick travel to any part of Ireland or Great Britain are in existence in the Port of Cobh.

It was also rumoured recently that the liner companies were seriously concerned over the additional costs to them in calling at two ports in the Free State. That, said Mr. Hennessy, is undoubtedly true, and in this connection it may be remarked that the port charges in themselves are a comparatively small item. A much more serious matter is the cost of running a liner on a deviation course, extending about eighteen hours. Very naturally additional revenue must be earned to cover the extra operating costs involved in the double call, but it is an unfortunate fact that the total amount of traffic over the past two years to and from the Ports of Cobh and Galway is considerably less than the traffic to and from the Port of Cobh in previous years.

It is not even suggested that the liner companies will in the near future abandon either port. The double call is forced on them by an insensate competition, and it is a question merely of how long it will take them to realise the futility of such reckless competition and its resultant costs.

In view of the present position, Mr. Hennessy said that he had no doubt that the liner companies will be forced to take an early decision.

Yesterday morning a middle-aged widow, Izabella Kemp, was found lying in the scullery of her home at Newtownards with her throat cut.

OKLAHOMA OIL WAR.

GOVERNOR SHUTS DOWN OVER 3,000 WELLS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Tuesday.

Mr. Murray, the Governor of Oklahoma, has issued an Executive order shutting down 3,106 oil wells in Oklahoma, and establishing martial law for a distance of 50 feet round each well.

Mr. Murray issued an ultimatum to the oil industry on July 28th, saying that, if oil prices were not increased to a dollar a barrel by the night of August 1st, he would sign an Executive order shutting down all but the stripper wells in Oklahoma. The Governor declared that "oil should be more than a dollar, but we will give them a chance to raise. We cannot let this go on—depleting resources and getting no taxes from them."

The last remark referred to the State and schools getting no taxes from oil at the present prices of fifty cents per barrel.

Wife And Son Remanded.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
OMAGH, Tuesday.

MRS. Rose Anne Nugent, and her son, Peter Nugent, appeared before a special court at Omagh, Co. Tyrone, to-day on a charge of throwing petrol on Thomas Nugent and setting him ablaze.

Nugent, who is a patient in the Omagh Union Hospital, stated that while he was in bed on Saturday night his wife and his son, Peter, scolded him. Shortly afterwards his wife threw a bowl of petrol on his face, while his son threw a lighted piece of paper over him, and he went in a blaze. While blazing he struggled to get out of the room, but his right arm was burned down to the wrist and his son Peter hit him over the head with a shovel haft. His wife, Nugent declared, had frequently threatened him, and said that she would burn him to death.

The defendants were remanded on bail for a week.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

The Horse Show of the Royal Dublin Society opened yesterday. The high standard of previous years was more than maintained, and there was a large attendance.—(Pages 5, 6 and 9.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Mr. Richard Clinker, who lived near Rugby, fell two hundred feet into an abyss while climbing Carnedd Llewellyn, Carnarvonshire, on Monday, and died as he was being carried away by a stretcher party.—(Page 10.)

ABROAD.

The fourth murder in six days was discovered by the New York police yesterday, when the body of a man was found sewn up in a blanket.—(Page 9.)

In a speech which was broadcast from Berlin last night the Chancellor appealed to the German people to maintain their calmness, and not make a run on the banks when normal business is resumed to-day.—(Page 9.)

Many attempts on air records are still being made, chief of them being the Australia-London flight by Mr. J. A. Mollison in an attempt to beat Scott's record of 10 days 23 hours.—(Page 9.)

SPORTING.

At Brighton yesterday Happy Mood won the Brighton Stakes.—(Page 12.)

At Birmingham Pictoralas won the August Handicap.—(Page 12.)

At Ripon Silver Glade won the Ripon City Welter Handicap.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets took on a more cheerful appearance and prices in many instances were substantially better, especially those of British Government stocks.—(Page 14.)

Quiet conditions prevailed on Dublin Markets, and prices closed lower.—(Page 14.)

Following an easy opening on New York Stock Exchange the market drifted downward. A rally in late dealings reduced most of the earlier losses, but the close was easy.—(Page 10.)

Spain and Catalonia.

Most pressing among the many pressing problems which confront the newly constituted Cortes of Spain is the question of Catalonia. The Generalidad itself has lifted up no uncertain voice. On Sunday last Colonel Macia submitted a "Statute," outlining a scheme for Catalonia's future, to a referendum of the people, and the people have accorded it almost unanimous approval. In the provisional count, says the Madrid Correspondent of The Times, out of 265,000 voters about 260,000 have stood by the Statute, and its legalising is now a matter for the Cortes. In comparison with Catalonia's clamour for the status of an independent Republic, which followed immediately upon the municipal elections and Don Alfonso's departure, the new Statute is strikingly moderate. It proposes, indeed, a status for Catalonia that is not unlike Northern Ireland's relation to Great Britain—with the apparent exception that Catalonia will send no members to the central Parliament. It recognises Catalonia's position as a autonomous State within the Spanish Republic; it defines her present limits, but provides that other regions can adhere to the new State by plebiscite. Catalonia will retain her own Treasury, but all matters of national finance will be reserved to the central Government at Madrid. In brief, everything that concerns the Generalidad exclusively will be the business of her own Government; but in all that concerns it as a part of Spain the Cortes will retain their jurisdiction.

How the Cortes will receive this demand is still a matter of conjecture. Despite its seeming moderation, the general opinion in Spain appears to be that Catalonia has asked a great deal too much. Certainly she will obtain a measure of her request, but it is doubtful whether her new autonomy will be on the lines suggested by the statute. Ministers on both sides remain optimistic—a fact which would imply that the statute has been framed with a certain provision for give and take. Yet a very strong feeling against Catalonian autonomy exists throughout Spain; and quite a number of patriotic Catalans foresee that to stress the demand may mean the financial ruin of their country. During the last two months Catalonia has become increasingly unpopular. The Spanish people have shown their dislike and resentment at her attitude in numerous ways, of which the most definite has been their boycott of Catalan goods. Unemployment is rife in the Generalidad; manufacturers are generally perturbed at the state of their affairs, and several banks have been compelled to suspend payment. In these circumstances, and with the prospect that derives from them, the choice confronting Catalonia is hard. Indeed, the fact that her business men have approved the statute, while realising that it is likely to involve commercial, no less than administrative, separation from the rest of Spain, furnishes an unmistakable indication of the overwhelming anti-Spanish sentiment that pervades them.

This unfriendly attitude among the two peoples is not redressed by any cordiality between their Governments. On the one hand, Madrid cherishes a hearty dislike of Colonel Macia, founded on his admitted partiality for the Syndicalists. The central Government is determined that under the new régime every labour dispute shall be submitted compulsorily to arbitration, and hopes to impose this policy upon Catalonia in common with Spain proper. Naturally, such a policy is anathema to the Syndicalists, and on two occasions Colonel Macia has lent his support to their resistance. On the other hand, Catalonia makes no secret of the fact that she distrusts the central Government, and, in particular, the very Ministers who promised to see her case for autonomy through the Cortes. Under these conditions of distrust and ill-will neither side is likely to attain a solution satisfactory to itself; and it seems almost certain that, whatever form of constitution Catalonia obtains, the occasion will be but a prelude to further doubts and difficulties. What, for instance, will happen if the Spanish people, having conceded her full demands according to the Statute, continue their boycott of Catalan goods? What, again, will be the result if the central Government insists on dictating terms to revolutionary labour in Catalonia, where the Communist idea runs strong—and how will the ordinary Catalan stand amid such a conflict? The Cortes as yet have considered no question so fraught with peril to the whole peninsula.

Housing Problems.

Some opinions expressed by the Estates Committee of the Belfast Corporation touched upon the real issues of all housing problems. Alderman Midgley was anxious to secure further sites for working people. Seaview, he held, was an excellent example of "what could be done on a moderate scale"—the individual residences, as he admitted, were rather small—and he urged the Committee to build more houses. A housing crusade, he said, was an urgent need, and the abundance of insanitary accommodation in the ward which he represented inspired him to high flights of pentecostal invective. Councillor Boyle, however, while he made no serious attack upon Alderman Midgley's aspirations, displayed a more practical outlook. He suggested that the renovation of old houses would be more useful than the construction of new domiciles at a distance from the original abode of their proposed inhabitants. Furthermore, he stressed the need to allow the workers to remain within a penny fare of their employment. Herein lies the essence of all housing schemes. The late Miss Octavia Hill appreciated this point, and her doctrines to-day colour the policy of most housing societies in London. Two outstanding problems must be considered in any plan for slum clearance. In the first place, geographical transplantation should, if possible, be avoided. Secondly—and it is a corollary—slum-dwellers in any one place must be enabled to pursue their ordinary vocations without heavy increases of their weekly budgets in the form of transport fares. Broadly, London's experience in this vital question has supported Miss Octavia Hill's concept. While county council and borough council schemes have made their goal the purging of their own bailiwick, the public utility societies have striven to remedy the real evil. This difference has been recognised alike by the various Churches and by the more responsible Press, with the result that a reasonable hope of practical legislation in the near future is entertained. In Ireland the question of the slums has not captured the public imagination to the same extent, and we are doubly grateful, therefore, to Councillor Boyle for his intelligent summing up of this island's chief need. It is little matter ultimately what site is selected; the real issue lies in the policy which determines its development. On the question of subsidies an open mind may be preserved; for actually two proper courses are open to authority. On the one hand, a Government loan may be floated; on the other hand, the public can be canvassed for subscription to the public utility societies, who, in their turn, ought to receive a ready and almost unquestioning support from any Government. Probably the latter course is the more desirable; for it obviates the cloying hand of officialdom and brings the need to ensure decent housing for all to every citizen. In fact, it thrusts back responsibility to the quarter to which responsibility ought to belong. We shall watch Belfast's efforts with solicitude; for an example in this island is sorely needed.

The Brick that Cheers.

A fresh development of the trade in illicit liquor has added a much-needed touch of comic relief to American life. Some Napoleon of "bootlegging," whose name as yet is not divulged, has discovered that wine can be made in the home from bricks composed of compressed grapes. The bricks are being manufactured with all speed by a resourceful firm of grape growers, and are sold openly in the streets of New York. As any convivial soul with a couple of dollars to spare may purchase the foundation-brick of his cellar under the scandalised gaze of the prohibition agents, who are powerless to intervene, we may readily imagine that trade is brisk. The prospective wine-bibber conveys his precious burden to his residence, where it is steeped in water for nearly six weeks. At the close of this tantalising period the liquid suffers a change into something rich and strange which is pleasantly described as Burgundy, sherry, or champagne, and the bacchanalian revels begin. According to the instructions supplied with every brick, the beverage is to be consumed within five days of its conversion into wine, otherwise it will ferment and acquire an alcoholic content of fifteen per cent. We are not told whether the instructions are being carried out. An agreeably Gilbertian flavour is lent to these transactions by the fact that the company responsible for the solidified nectar is in receipt of a generous grant from the Government. The situation is deplorable—and so, we imagine, is the wine—but fancy dwells with a certain lamentable relish on the picture it conjures up of the American connoisseur in his cellar. As he lingers among his bricks what leaf-fringed legend will hang about their shape? Stacked in orderly rows to the ceiling they will whisper to him of Flora and the country green, and he will savour in anticipation the moment when, the weeks of soaking over, the vintage of 1931 shall crown his cups.

Flag Days.

The Belfast Corporation yesterday attempted a delicate task when it set out to determine the point at which the "flag day" ceases to be of real benefit to charity, and comes to be regarded as an intolerable nuisance. A minute considered by the meeting recommended that the Commissioner of Police should come to the rescue of a harassed public by extending his permission for street collections to be made only to a few particularly deserving charities. After a somewhat robust debate the minute was passed. Those who have visited Belfast on a flag day—and it is difficult to avoid doing so if one goes at all—will have vivid recollections of the assiduity with which the collectors of that city ply their voluntary trade. To proceed from one corner of Donegall square to another without experiencing, in a minor way, the fate of the winkle and the whale is a task beyond the power of any but the most pachydermatous wayfarer. A good citizen will joyfully contribute his mite to a worthy charity, but, if the demand be made too often, his contribution soon takes on the character of a subscription designed to release him from the extortions of an organised banditti. Whether the best interests of charity are served by this equivocal method of attracting public attention is a question which has its importance in Dublin as well as in Belfast. A week ago an unauthorised street collection led to proceedings in one of the city courts, and the Justice did not withhold his opinion that "flag days," although a popular form of appeal, are "a great nuisance." The outcome of the Belfast Corporation's attitude will be marked here with interest.

ABBEY THEATRE.

"JUNO AND THE PAYCOCK" REVIVAL.

The revival of "Juno and the Paycock" brought a very large audience to the Abbey Theatre last night, and everyone seemed to enjoy thoroughly the antics of "Joxer" and "The Captain."

It needs only to be said that Mr. F. J. McCormick was again "Joxer" and Mr. Barry Fitzgerald the "Captain" Boyle to assure everyone that the play was at its humorous best. These two artists are quite inimitable in these parts, to which they bring the fruits of wide sympathy and deep study, and as a combination they achieve perfection.

Miss Eileen Crowe's "Juno" is a poignant study, and Miss May Craig secured the sympathy of the audience as the stricken Mrs. Tancred. The Boyle family was completed by Mr. Arthur Shields as the crippled Johnny, and Miss Shelah Richards as Mary.

The half hearted Jerry Devine was excellently interpreted by Mr. P. J. Carolan, and the harbinger of good and evil, Charlie Bentham, by Mr. Michael J. Dolan.

The second comedy pair consisted of Miss Maureen Delany as Mrs. Madigan and Mr. J. Stephenson as Nugent. Others in the large cast were Messrs. Denis O'Dea, Peter Nolan, and the Misses Kate Curling and Joan Sullivan.

"Juno and the Paycock" will be repeated on Thursday and Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock, and at a matinée performance on Saturday at 2.30 p.m.

IRISH ROADS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As an English motorist visiting Ireland I would like to emphasise your Special Correspondent's note on the introduction of the "white line." It seems to me so essential from the point of view of saving life.

In England we can drive a car with much more ease and comfort, because we know that in turning a corner everybody obeys the simple "white line" rule.

What a pity the secondary roads are so bad. Yesterday we went from Killarney to Dingle via Inch. For scenery this is a most delightful run. At Inch there is a charming bathing beach, and it is worth anyone's while to spend a couple of hours there.

The pleasure is taken out of the drive by the shaking you get on the secondary road, on which you must travel.

I know plenty of English motorists, who would come to your beautiful island if the roads were better.—Yours, etc.,

RICHARD BATES.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

In consequence of the fatal accident on the Britannia on Monday, the King cancelled the entry of the Royal yacht for the race for the King's Cup, which took place yesterday and was won in brilliant style by Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V.

Their Majesties entertained Commodore Sir Richard Williams-Bulkeley and Lady Magdalen Williams-Bulkeley and Sir Godfrey and Lady Baring at dinner on board the Royal yacht on Monday night.

The Duke and Duchess of York are staying with Mr. C. G. and Lady Doris Vyner at Studley Royal, Yorkshire, where the Duchess celebrated her thirty-first birthday yesterday very quietly, and is enjoying a rest in the country after the strain of so many engagements during the season.

After fulfilling various engagements, Princess Mary and the Earl of Harewood have returned to Harewood House, Leeds.

The Duke of Connaught and Princess Beatrice were among the visitors in the Royal Yacht Squadron Gardens on Monday, when many well-known people were present. The weather was rather blustery, and most people kept on their wraps.

Princess Victoria was accompanied by Lady Maud Carnegie and Lady Blanche Seymour when she opened the combined sports meeting which was held last Monday at Iver, in Buckinghamshire. Princess Helena Victoria will open a Royal Fête and Gala in the grounds of St. Winifred's School at Ramsgate to-day in aid of the fund being raised to restore the Church of St. Lawrence, which is nine hundred years old, and is greatly in need of repair.

UNITED STATES LEGATION.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION.

One of the most brilliant functions held in Dublin for many years was held last night at the United States Legation, Phœnix Park, Dublin, by the United States Minister and Mrs. Sterling. Mrs. Sterling wore a beautiful gown of silver brocaded tissue fashioned with a tunic effect on the skirt. Her ornaments were a massive diamond tiara and a diamond and ruby necklace.

The handsome rooms of the Legation were decorated with masses of carnations, while pink rambler roses were twined about the white pillars of the ballroom. Leading off the ballroom, the conservatory was transformed into fairyland with myriads of fairy lights placed among the tall, white Canterbury bells and palms, while outside on the lawns the guests strolled in the cool of a perfect summer night. Refreshments of every kind were served in the dining-room, and music was provided by the Capitol Band.

In the thronged ballroom it was difficult to distinguish any individual gowns. Mrs. McNeill wore a graceful gown of flame-coloured georgette. Frances, Machioness Conyngham, was in an elegant black gown, with a tiara of diamonds. The Countess of Fingall wore a handsome gown of green bocaded tissue, with a tiara of diamonds. Lady Arnott was in silver brocade, with a tiara and ornaments of diamonds. Lady Eva Forbes wore a graceful gown of ruby-red lace. Lady Lambart was in black velvet. Parchment-coloured satin was worn by Lady Goulding. Lady Mary Corbally was in black lace, while Miss Corbally came in a white satin frock.

the Hon. Mrs. Gilpin's lovely gown was of parchment-coloured satin. The Hon. Mrs. Plunket wore a white georgette gown trimmed with old lace, while Miss O. Plunket was in a gown of silver sequins.

Sterling was in a graceful flowered ninon gown; Lady Helena Fitzwilliam was wearing a white silver beaded georgette and net gown, and lemon-coloured satin was worn by Mrs. Kirkwood. A SPANISH PLOT THAT FAILED.

ATTEMPT TO KINDLE CIVIL WAR.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MADRID, Tuesday.

A sensational story of a pact entered into last May between members of the Catalan Separatist organisation and Major Franco, the Communist leader, is told in a despatch published by the Politica, of Cordova.

All preparations were made for civil war on a large scale, in order to compel the Government and the Cortes, whether they wished or no, to support Catalonia's demand for independence. The alternative to consent was to have been civil war between Catalonia and the rest of Spain, but, as the organisers desired to keep the rich manufacturing districts of Catalonia as far from the conflict as possible, Andalusia was chosen as the seat of disturbance.

Major Franco and his friends are alleged to have received some £80,000, and to have left for Andalusia with the firm support of the revolutionary extremists. As a guarantee that he should not be excluded if the movement were successful, Major Franco demanded, and obtained, inclusion among the candidates in the forthcoming Catalonian election. This measure, in addition to giving him the status of a deputy, would also have enabled him to profit by his parliamentary immunity from arrest.

ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

Large dumps of ammunition and arms were established in many centres in Andalusia, and a rising was arranged to coincide with the election of the Constituent Cortes. The failure of the rising was due, it is stated, to the energetic measures taken by General San Jurjo, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces.

After the election had been held it was seen that the Catalonian question had developed in an aggravated form. The separatist organisers are said then to have decided to profit by the existence of the ammunition dump in Andalusia by giving battle to the Socialists. The disorders in Seville ensued, but these were vigorously repressed by the authorities, in spite of the representation of the President of the Generalita of Catalonia in favour of the Syndicalists.

The Politica further adds that the pact between the Generalita and Major Franco was the sole reason for his inclusion among the candidates of the Left in Catalonia, as Major Franco had no ties with Catalonia or its politics.

AWARDED BRITISH EMPIRE MEDAL.

SEQUEL TO GALLANTRY IN CHINA.

It was announced in the London Gazette last night that the King has approved the award of the medal of the Military Division of the Order of the British Empire to No. 4384271 Lance-Sergeant Thomas Edward Alder, 2nd Battalion the Green Howards, for gallantry.

Lance-Sergeant Alder and a party of three other ranks of his regiment, while employed on anti-piracy duties on the Yangtse Kiang River, boarded the steamship Kiatung, which was being attacked by Communist rifle fire, and held the attackers at bay for twenty-four hours until assistance arrived.

SHIPPING MERGER.

CANADIAN AND NEW ZEALAND LINES.

An Exchange Company's message from Wellington, New Zealand, says that the head office of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, Limited, announces the incorporation of a company to be named the Canadian Australasian Line, to take over the liners Aorangi and Niagara, belonging to the first-named company, and running between Vancouver, New Zealand and Australia. The new company will be jointly owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Union Steamship Company, the head office being at Vancouver.

Reuter's Wellington Correspondent states that the merger is regarded as a reply to the extended activities of the Watson Navigation Company of San Francisco.

THE KING TO HOLD A COUNCIL.

The King will hold a Council on Tuesday, 11th August.

LONDON LETTER.

POLITICAL TENSION IN GERMANY.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,

TUESDAY NIGHT.

Germany is passing through the most critical week since her financial troubles began. To-morrow the banks return to unrestricted business conditions, but the political tension in Germany has created a situation which does not augur well for the smooth conduct of commercial activities. There is trouble over the referendum to be held next Sunday on the question of a general election in Prussia, which is the stronghold of the German Moderate parties. The Government forces are afraid that, if the elections should turn in the Nationalist or Communist favour, there would be a shock to German credit which would do irreparable harm at the present moment. Far-reaching concessions are being offered to the latter parties in the hope of persuading them to abandon the referendum, but it is doubtful whether even the great influence of President von Hindenburg will succeed in inducing the Nationalist leader, Dr. Hugenburg, to adopt that course.

The Economy Report.

The report of the May Committee places the Government in a quandary. Any statement on their part to carry out the proposed recommendations is bound to excite a storm of anger among their supporters, which sooner than later would mean their undoing. They came into office "pledged in advance to vast and expensive schemes," and the only part of their pledges that has been redeemed has been at the cost of the taxpayers. They have winked at abuses in the Unemployment Insurance Act, and by the abolition of the "genuinely seeking work" test have created an army of pensioners to whom any form of toil is abhorrent. Abuses, too, have been creeping in unchecked under the Health Insurance Act, of which there undoubtedly is too much lax administration. To curtail this and other benefits, which have been liberally handed out under the guise of social services, or even to interfere with teachers' salaries, would mean the Labour Party's annihilation at the next election. If possible, the report of the Economy Committee will be shelved.

Cricket Changes.

Now that the cricket season is entering upon its final phase, it is possible to estimate the effect of the changes in the regulations made for this year. On the whole, the alterations seem to have been for the good of the game. The wider wicket has had the effect expected of it, and has provided bowlers with just sufficient advantage to enable them to meet strong batsmen on more equal terms on good wickets, and there is little doubt that it will be retained. The method by which the County Championship table is computed may not be without its faults, but it is generally regarded as a better system than that employed last year, and the lure of fifteen points for a win has been effective enough to tempt several captains to take a risk in order to gain the winning points. The advisability of a change in the rules to prevent both teams declaring early in the first innings for a score of four runs each is a more controversial point, which remains to be decided before next season.

Liner Cruises.

Experiments of using large Atlantic liners for short holiday cruises appear to have been eminently successful as far as the passengers are concerned, and, if the financial results to the company have been equally satisfactory, further trips of this character doubtless will be arranged. The White Star liner Homeric carried 1,250 passengers, who embarked at Southampton on Saturday afternoon, returning to that port last night. During that time a distance of 633 miles was steamed, the course being towards Cherbourg, and thence along the Cornish coast, past Land's End to the Scilly Isles and back. During the cruise the vessel passed the Adriatic, which was carrying out a similar cruise from Liverpool. The Homeric returns to her regular Atlantic service to-morrow, when she is due to leave Southampton for New York, while the Adriatic will resume her place on the Liverpool-New York route later in the month.

Famous Boats Destroyed.

The calamitous fire which occurred at the British Power Boat Company's works on Southampton Water yesterday resulted in damage to the extent of considerably over one hundred thousand pounds. Fifty racing craft were lost, including the famous Miss Britain I., which won an international trophy at Detroit last year and again this year, and Miss Britain II., which was to have made its first public appearance at an international motor boat meeting at Geneva this month. A new boat of the twelve-litre class, which has been built in secret for racing at Venice, was also destroyed. Several motor pinnaces built for the Admiralty and the Royal Air Force for use with flying boats were lost. Some of these were required in connection with the Schneider contest in September. The burning premises adjoined a large hangar belonging to the Vickers Supermarine Aviation Company, where the famous Southampton flying boats are assembled, but the firemen were able to prevent the aircraft building becoming involved.

Lawn Tennis Month.

This month will be the greatest in the history of English lawn tennis. No fewer than one hundred and thirty official tournaments are to be decided in various parts of the country, ranging from three to eleven days' play. There will be fifty-nine junior meetings, an increase of ten on previous year's figures, and the county junior championships have increased to fifteen. Thirty-two open tournaments will be played during the week—that is, twenty-one senior and eleven junior—which are record numbers. Upwards of thirty thousand players will take part in the games.

Shale Oil Industry.

For some time the Scottish shale oil industry has been in a precarious condition, and lately has gone from bad to worse. Unless temporary assistance is immediately forthcoming there is every prospect that it will suffer extinction, which means throwing some five thousand miners and others out of work. Last week the Prime Minister turned down a local deputation that proposed to wait upon him on the subject, but the President of the Board of Trade and the Secretary for Mines have now consented to receive it, and in due course will hear the appeals from representatives from every section connected with the industry. The object of the interview is to enlist State aid to tide over the present trade depression. It is unlikely, however, that any public funds will be devoted to this purpose. If it were a matter of risking further Russian credits, no doubt the money would be available for the asking.

WAGING WAR AGAINST THE KING.

CHARGE AGAINST INDIAN LEADER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CAWNPORE, Tuesday.

Mr. M. N. Roy, the Indian Communist leader, who was arrested in Bombay on July 21 on a charge of "waging war against the King," has been transferred here.

The magisterial inquiry into the charge against him starts on August 17.

HORSE SHOW OPENS IN IDEAL WEATHER.

NINE ARMIES REPRESENTED IN JUMPING EVENTS.

FREE STATE WINS THE HIGH JUMP.

FOUR-IN-HANDS PROVIDE PLEASING NEW FEATURE.

THE Horse Show of the Royal Dublin Society's bi-centenary year opened yesterday in splendid weather. There was a slight falling-off in the attendance as compared with the opening day last year, but, with the exception of 1930, it was the largest attendance for half a dozen years, as the following figures show:—

1930	13,947
1931	12,881
Decrease	1,066
1929	11,491
1928	11,732
1927	12,649
1926	10,708
1925	7,959

The entries for the Show were remarkably good, although there was a slight drop in the number of young horses. In the older classes there were no less than 522 "made" hunters of four years and upwards, more than double the number to be seen at any horse show in the world today.

Nine nations competed in yesterday's Military High Jumping competition, in which Captain Corry carried off the honours for the Free State, the first five in the order of merit being:—

FREE STATE, ITALY, ENGLAND, SWEDEN, CANADA.

A new and picturesque feature was the four-in-hand competition, which attracted half a dozen entries from across the water, and proved very popular with the spectators.

BRILLIANT SCENE IN GLORIOUS WEATHER.

By Our Special Representative.

THIS year's Horse Show opened on a midsummer day—reckoning by the weather and ignoring that futile guide, the calendar. It was the sort of day that old moved W. E. Henley to pen his "Ballade Made in the Hot Weather," rhapsodising of fountains and long, cool drinks in sylvan settings, when—

> With a ripple of leaves and a tinkle of streams,
> The full world rolls in a rhythm of praise,
> And the winds are one with the clouds and beams—
> Midsummer days! Midsummer days!

In short, it was the sort of day that should have filled the most picturesque show grounds in Europe with such a crowd as even Ballsbridge had never seen before.

It did not. The attendance yesterday, though it might have satisfied the promoters of other horse shows if they were lucky enough to have it, seemed not quite worthy of the Dublin Horse Show. Yet it was only a thousand less than the attendance at the opening day in 1930, which was the highest since 1925.

MORE ROOM.

Nevertheless it was a comparatively slack day for the Ballsbridge trams. Hurrying to the Pillar in the early afternoon with the full expectation of having to queue up, one found that the special show ground trams were at a discount. The writer sat on the hurricane deck of one such tram for almost five minutes before another intrepid adventurer joined him, and when we arrived at Ballsbridge we disembarked no more than a dozen all told, including the 'tween decks passengers.

Of course, the ingenuity of the Royal Dublin Society's officials has so taken advantage of every possible spare inch during the past few years that the largest attendance at last year's Show would not create such congestion as it did on that occasion, and the greater freedom of movement might give the impression that there were not so many present. The construction of extra stands and of the Pembroke Hall, for example, with its score or two of stalls specially devoted to Irish manufactures, has greatly relieved the tax on the floor space of the main hall.

The trams' dull day was accounted for by the fact that the greater part of yesterday's gathering arrived at Ballsbridge by motor (as did a large number of the horses). If motors continue to multiply at the present rate, they will have to construct a huge underground parking station at Ballsbridge.

BUSINESS FIRST.

Of course, it was the "business day" of the Show, when the people who are really interested in horse qua horse, as distinct from those who allude to him as "the noble quadruped" and prefer a taxi, were showing each other that he was anything but a back number. The business day of the Show always has been rather caviare to the general.

In any case, what little the transient population of the grounds lacked in numbers it made up in knowledge. It was keenly interested in the horse and all that concerned him. It is my belief that all the horses at the Show are fully conscious of their importance and are addicted to what is vulgarly known as "swank." You can see it in the very way they mince about the paths on their way to the judging rings, shouldering mere two-legged humans out of their way with a calm insolence that is rather devastating.

The majority of the people at Ballsbridge yesterday, however, were not the sort to be impressed by that brand of arrogance. In a language which was foreign to the majority, they subjected the animals to a critical analysis which must have shattered the self-esteem of many a "noble quadruped" if he understood it.

Not being an initiate, I could but admire the satiny sheen on horses' coats of many colours, and marvel at the grace of lithe limbs and rippling muscles, and, suffering from an inferiority complex, envy the proud toss of nobly-shaped heads.

I could quite understand, however, the feeling that led little groups of fashionably-dressed women in the long gauzy afternoon frocks of the moment, to accompany their men folk down the stable aisles for a closer view of the handsome horses and ponies. They were devotees of the cult of physical fitness, allied with grace and beauty.

COACHING DAYS RECALLED.

Personally, the item that took my fancy above all others on yesterday's programme—not excluding the nine nations' military jumping competition which the Free State won—was the parade of the four-in-hands. I am certain that, apart from the military jumping competitions, it will be easily the most popular feature of the Show during the ensuing days.

There were only six coaches, but they were obviously the crème de la crème of their kind. How old Sam Weller would have goggled at those spotless turn-outs! If some captious person had gone over the vehicles with a "double-barrelled, hundred horse-power microscope" it is doubtful if he could have found a scratch in their veneer, a dull spot in the glittering harness, or an out-of-place wrinkle in the attire of driver or footmen.

As for action—the manner in which the coaches drove round the grassy ring which surrounds the jumping enclosure gave a new meaning to that hackneyed phrase about the poetry of motion.

I could sympathise with the unsophisticated friend at my elbow who complained that one horse was "not in step" with the others. It was the same friend who was not satisfied until the coachmen in the red uniforms sounded their long bugles on the last round. Then, I think, the Show had no more complete joy to offer him, and he went home. (But he is coming up again to-day to see the coaches roll round and hear the bugles once more.)

Incidentally one wondered why all the coaches had to come from across the water. Without being a "terribly ould, ancient man," I can remember when we had coaches which made trips from Dublin and Belfast even as these English coaches make trips from English cities to-day. Is there an adequate reason for not having at least one or two in this country in this year of grace?

THE LURE OF THE STALLS.

The industrial side of the Horse Show fascinates me almost as much as the horses. I can never understand how it is that so many Irish manufacturers can produce such wonderfully attractive stalls in a country where the art of window-dressing (apart from politics) is in its infancy. If our major shopkeepers could dress their windows with the cunning "artistry" that is revealed in these stalls at the Horse Show, it would, I am certain, give a wonderful fillip to business.

The most unpromising materials were displayed in an alluring manner—even bacon took on an element of poesy—and, where their wares gave them a chance, the stallholders made a veritable fairyland of their exhibits. The picturesque dresses of some of the girl attendants at the stalls helped to transform the Main Hall into a remarkable illustration of "brighter business," in the literal sense of the adjective.

The annexe of the Main Hall always was the headquarters of our "arty" industries, but it was pleasant to notice yesterday that we are not at all as aggressively "arty" as we used to be, and that the bulk of the articles offered for sale therein were not only good art, but guaranteed hamlets in any suburban home.

The furniture exhibit in the annexe always holds me for more minutes than I should spare. Usually they show the sort of furniture that I would like to buy if I was refurnishing with the firm determination that everything would be in the best artistic taste—the sort of thing that would make you scatter invitations to tea or dinner and send all your friends home wild with envy. And, of course, Todd Burns's bungalow, in another part of the building, has always capped the dream.

A BIG CANVAS.

I have always maintained that one day is not enough for anyone to get a fair idea of our Horse Show. I am more convinced than ever after yesterday. It was "business" day. To-day society will be more in evidence, and those who are interested in that sort of thing can enjoy themselves to satiation point. That is one point.

Also there will be the flower show. I spent half an hour trying to get into the flower show yesterday before I discovered that it does not open until to-day. Yesterday they were going about the serious business of judging.

In any case, the Horse Show is too big an affair to be completely envisaged in one day. For those who properly appreciate it—and they are legion—it is an annual event to be made the most of, to be prolonged judiciously like a glass of old wine. To get a proper appreciation of it one must be at Ballsbridge on every one of the four days that it is open.

The idea of erecting a large marquee on the lawn where the bands play was an excellent one. Yesterday one heard both the No. 1 Army Band and the famous English band, the Wingates, in cool comfort—and didn't care a rap if it rained.

Yesterday the grounds looked their very best in the blazing sunshine, with a brilliant panorama of Irish life in constant movement before the eyes as one sat under the shade of the sheltering trees or in the cool loftiness of one of the many stands. Everybody seemed in high spirits, and the musical tinkle of feminine laughter alternated with the applause that greeted performances in the jumping enclosure or in the various rings.

It was easy to understand the bewilderment of the young Frenchman opposite the Viceregal Box who (rather surprisingly) quoted Renan's weather-beaten comment on the "melancholy of the Celts," and expressed the opinion that, however much it might apply to Brittany, it certainly could not apply to Southern Ireland.

Granted a repetition of yesterday's weather for the remainder of the week, this year's Horse Show, despite yesterday's rather unpromising start in the matter of attendance, should be the most successful yet held.

BROADCAST TO GERMANY.

CHANCELLOR'S APPEAL.

NO TIME NOW FOR PARTY QUARRELS.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ECONOMIC POLICY.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
BERLIN, Tuesday.

IN a speech broadcast to-night in Germany and to the United States and Great Britain the Chancellor, Dr. Bruening, made an urgent appeal to the German people to maintain the calm which they have hitherto shown, and not to make a run on the banks to-morrow, when normal business is to be resumed.

Referring to next Sunday's plebiscite on the Nationalists' demand for a dissolution of the Prussian Diet he said that this was not the time for party quarrels, and he asked the people to remain united. The policy of the Government was to remain in close economic relations with other countries, which was the only course that could possibly succeed. It was impossible to surround Germany with a Chinese wall.

The Chancellor further pointed out the impossibility of obtaining a foreign loan, and said that Germany must in consequence help herself.

RELATIONS WITH FRANCE.

Discussing his Paris visit Dr. Bruening said: "A start has been made with a rapprochement; the first step has been taken. Our relations with France are extremely important. We hope to continue the German-French exchange of views here in the frankest manner during the return visit of the French statesmen to Berlin."

The Chancellor then gave a full review of the events of the past week, including his and the Foreign Minister's journey to Paris, the Seven Powers' Conference, and the measures taken by the Government since his return to Berlin.

Referring to President Hoover's "historic act," the Chancellor reminded his hearers that he had at the time warned the nation against the illusion, that with the Hoover debt holiday easy times were ahead of Germany.

"The events proved that I was right," he said.

THE FINANCIAL CRISIS.

Alluding to the financial crash he added: "The German people bore the heavy affliction which visited all classes with exemplary quiet, and thereby showed their natural sense of order and leadership, which elicited the approval of the whole world. The people, therefore, are entitled to know what the Government has been doing, all the more so since the Reichstag, in a statesmanlike manner, decided not to convene this summer.

"The Hoover plan was realised in its essentials, but it was regrettable that time was lost over its adoption. The events following its adoption showed how interwoven the world's economic system has become."

The Chancellor assured his hearers that the various emergency measures had nothing whatever to do with inflation.

"Do not be afraid that you will lose your hard-earned savings," he said. "On the contrary, leave them, and even add to them; for the value of your savings will be enhanced by the measures we are taking."

GOVERNMENT AND THE BANKS.

With reference to the newspaper reports that the Government was planning to place all banks under Government control, the Chancellor emphasised the fact that, in the interests of hundreds of thousands, it had been essential that the Government should come to the rescue of the big banks.

"The Government," he contnued, "cannot renounce the well-considered measures which are in preparation to regulate the entire credit and capital system. This does not mean a blow against the freedom of the bankers. But now that the State, on the urgent request of those concerned, has had to act as a rescuer and protector, it has thereby assumed the obligation to take preventive measures for the future, which other nations have taken long ago."

BANKING OPERATIONS RESUMED.

Although officially all restrictions are not removed until to-morrow, a large number of Berlin banks to-day resumed normal banking operations and paid out freely over the counter.

The day passed off without a hitch, the banks finding sufficient funds to meet all demands.

This concession to the public had a very good effect, and almost all banks reported that the amounts paid in far exceeded withdrawals. They, in consequence, expect that this will be the case to-morrow.

It is learned in political circles that the German Government intends to place all banks under Government control.

Government control is regarded as a further step on the part of the Government towards re-establishing confidence in German currency at home and abroad.

PREMIER'S VISIT TO MR. STIMSON.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald will meet Mr. Stimson, United States Secretary of State, to-morrow at Mr. Stimson's Highland residence in Rogart Parish, about seven miles from Golspie, Sutherland. Mr. Macdonald will be accompanied by his daughter, and will spend two days with Mr. Stimson.

Mr. Macdonald declined to make any statement on the subject yesterday. It is understood, however, that the meeting is taking place at Mr. Stimson's invitation, and that among the subjects of discussion will be the present situation, with special reference to the banks in Germany.

Mr. Macdonald is in touch with London, and is following the German situation with close attention. He is particularly interested in the effect of to-day's re-opening of the German banks, and expects to receive a special report on the position of affairs. Mr. Macdonald appears to believe that matters soon will be straightened out.

FIRST DAY OF DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

A general view, showing the judging in the four-in-hands event.

CRIME WAVE IN NEW YORK.

FOURTH MURDER IN SIX DAYS.

POLICE AT GRIPS WITH THE UNDERWORLD.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Tuesday.

CONFRONTED with the fourth gang murder in six days, the police have redoubled their efforts to get a grip of the underworld situation. The latest mystery is the finding of the body of a "small" racketeer doubled up and sewn up in a blanket.

The man had been strangled in a manner suggestive of the notorious Vivian Gordon case.

The victim was found by a policeman in a gutter in Long Island City, close to the Queensborough Bridge. Not suspecting that a crime had been committed, the policeman cut the window-cord which bound the nondescript bundle. It opened up with a sharp spring, disclosing the face of a corpse with a rope tied so tightly round the neck that it had cut into the flesh.

THE SHOOTING OF CHILDREN.

The chief ambition of the police, however, is to solve the shooting of five children on July 29 last. "Big Tee" Buzzoni, the bookmaker, who admitted that he was the real target of the killers, has undergone a gruelling cross-examination which lasted for some hours.

Among others, the police questioned Vincent Rao, cousin of Joseph Rao—Jack Diamond's associate—said to be a leading figure in the beer-running clique. The men were subsequently released.

The police refuse to give any information regarding three Italians who were arrested late last night in the neighbourhood of the club, in front of which the children were shot down.

MAIL BAG ROBBERY.

£5,000 MISSING.

The robbery of £5,000 in currency from a mail pouch has been discovered after being completely unsuspected for many days, says the New York Times.

It arrived here aboard the Mauretania from Nassau, Bahamas, and there was no external evidence that it had been tampered with until it was opened some days after its delivery to the New York branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

It is believed that the robbery occurred at Nassau.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE EXAMPLE OF AUSTRALIA.

In an editorial article The Times to-day observes:—People in England will do well at this moment to follow closely what is going on in Australia, where the recent sequence of events—public extravagance, unbalanced Budgets and consequent loss of credit—has an important lesson for us all. As part of a carefully-thought-out plan to balance the Commonwealth and State Budgets and restore the credit of the country a great attempt is about to be made to convert all the existing internal Government securities. The necessary legislation has already been passed by the Commonwealth and State Parliaments, and the machinery is now being organised for an appeal to the investors, which will be launched within the next few days.

In the meantime it is announced that the banks have given a lead to the public by renewing the whole of the Treasury bills covering temporary Government finance throughout Australia at four per cent. instead of six per cent., which had previously ruled. These bills amounted to nearly £22,000,000, and the operation will save the Government nearly half a million a year in interest. It is also announced on behalf of one of the leading private banks that it will convert the whole of its holdings in international securities, and its directors will also convert their own personal holdings.

The holders of some £550,000,000 of internal securities, carrying varying rates of interest, which work out at an average rate of 5.4 per cent., are to be asked to exchange them for new securities carrying an average rate of 4 per cent., and thus to save the country £6,500,000 a year in interest. It is a great sacrifice to ask, but it is to save Australia from bankruptcy, and the sacrifice is not being demanded from one section of the people alone. The conversion is part of a co-ordinated plan, imposing sacrifices on all sections alike.

In their endeavours to balance their Budget and rehabilitate the credit of Australia, the Government are receiving the united support of the Opposition. As the Government which has adopted and given effect to the great scheme, of which the loan conversion about to be undertaken is a part, they will be given full credit for any success that may be achieved by it; and it is likely that the success will be considerable, for there is no nation in the world more ready than the Australian to respond to an appeal to its patriotism.

WOMEN DELEGATES.

Of the three women delegates, two are Hindus and one a Muslim. The two Labour representatives are both Hindus.

In addition to the names given, there are the four delegates who represented Burma last winter. These remain formally members of the Conference, but their position will require consideration in connection with the special arrangements to be made for the discussion of the future of Burma, as to which an announcement will be made very shortly.

CONFERENCE CONSTITUTION.

The Round Table Conference as constituted last session consisted of eighty-nine members, and was made up as follows:—

British delegations—16.
Indian States delegation—16.

The date for the re-opening of the full Conference depends upon the work of the two committees, and it is not possible to say when the full Conference will resume its sessions. The Indian delegates who are not members of the Federal Structure or Minorities Committee are, however, being asked to hold themselves in readiness to reach London by the end of October.

The members of the Minorities Committee are being invited to assemble in London on the 26th September with a view to resuming the discussions at the beginning of October.

Arrangements at St. James's Palace will be as before. The proceedings begin with the resumption of business by the Federal Structure Committee soon after September 5th, the date of the assembling of delegates in London.

There will be no State ceremony attending the resumption of business such as marked the opening of the Conference on November 12th, 1930.

ARCHBISHOP AND INDIA.

"FREQUENT INTERCESSIONS" APPEAL.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, in a message to the diocese in the current number of the Diocesan Gazette, speaking with reference to India, says:—

"It seems certain that the Round Table Conference will meet again in September, and renew its consideration of the future government of that great Empire, with its more than 300,000,000 people. It is the greatest and most difficult task which has ever been put before the British Empire in the long course of its history. It will demand the exercise of patient and constructive statesmanship.

"But, as everyone admits, even more important is the spirit with which the representatives of India and of Great Britain approach the problem. Nothing but a spirit of mutual sympathy and understanding and good-will can find a way through the difficulties. I hope that throughout the diocese there will be frequent intercessions, both in our churches and in our private prayers, that God will give spirit to the members of the Conference as they prepare for the momentous meeting."

CIRCUIT COURT COSTS.

PROMPT ACTION NECESSARY.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. BINCHY.

CAUSES OF PRESENT DIFFICULTY.

By Our Special Representative.

LEGISLATION is necessary to deal with the crisis that has arisen in regard to the matter of costs in the Circuit Courts, and also to remove the present defects in the judicial system. What those defects are and how necessary is the remedy was explained in the course of a conversation last evening by Mr. Michael Binchy, K.C., chairman of the committee appointed by the Free State Bar to go into the question of Circuit Court costs, consequent on last week's decision of the Supreme Court.

The position that has arisen, Mr. Binchy pointed out, is that the Supreme Court has decided that Circuit Judges who have jurisdiction under the Courts of Justice Act of 1924 to try common-law cases involving amounts up to £300, rights in lands up to a poor law valuation of £60, in equity matters to deal with estates involving personalty up to a thousand pounds, and lands up to £60—that these Circuit Court Judges should have no power to award at the moment, and never had power since they sat to award any more costs than the costs provided by the old County Court scale—that is to say, a maximum in common-law cases of a sum between £4 and £5, and in equity cases of between £8 and £10.

This happened because Sections 66 and 101 of the Courts of Justice Act of 1924 have never been acted upon by the Oireachtas in the manner contemplated by that Act. These sections set up a Rule-Making Committee for the purpose, amongst other things, of settling a schedule of costs applicable in the Circuit Court, but they provided that these costs should not become law until they had been ratified by both Houses of the Oireachtas.

Since 1924 a set of rules, including a schedule of costs, was actually drawn up and placed before both Houses, but, for one reason or other, was rejected. Later on another set of rules was drawn up containing another schedule of costs, and these were placed in the hands of the Minister for Justice with a view to having them placed before the Oireachtas. By this time, however, it was already contemplated that a Joint Committee of both Houses should be set up to inquire into the whole question of the working of the Courts of Justice Act of 1924, particularly with regard to the method of appeal from the Circuit Court—as to whether the Circuit Court judges should be allowed to retain the large jurisdiction given them by the 1924 Act, and as to whether the High Court was sufficiently manned with judges to carry out the legal work of the country. Other questions came before that Committee, but it may be said with reasonable accuracy that the foregoing were the outstanding points.

As the Joint Committee was shortly to be appointed, I understand, said Mr. Binchy, that the Government refrained from placing the new draft rules and schedule before the Houses, pending the findings and report of the Committee. After taking evidence from fifty-two witnesses, the Committee presented its report on the 6th November, 1930, and I understand that the Government undertook that on presentation of the report legislation would be immediately introduced for the purpose of carrying out its recommendations without delay; but no measure has been introduced.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Committee recommended a complete change in the method of appeal from the Circuit Court, suggesting a re-hearing instead of appeal on stenographer's notes. They also recommended that the Circuit Court should be allowed to retain the whole of the larger jurisdiction given to it, and also that litigants should be allowed to bring actions in the High Court involving sums of less than £300, and that they should not be unduly penalised in the matter of costs in the High Courts if they recovered less than £300. Paragraphs 97 to 101 of the report dealt fully with this matter.

Lastly, the Committee recommended that the number of judges in the High Court should be increased for the purpose of dealing promptly and satisfactorily with the amount of judicial work coming forward. They recommended that this increase in personnel should be made without delay.

If this legislation had been brought in, the courts by this time would be working smoothly and efficiently, to the satisfaction of the entire community, and there is every reason to think that the courts will work to the satisfaction of all classes, and that the delays which are now being so much complained of by commercial interests, as well as by lawyers, will be avoided; but in the meantime a very definite crisis has arisen with regard to the powers of Circuit Court judges to award costs.

AN IMMEDIATE NEED.

This is a matter which will have to be dealt with immediately, pending the introduction of larger measures to carry out the recommendations of the Joint Committee. By reason of the decision of the Supreme Court it would appear that every judgment of a circuit judge made since 1924 whereby he awarded costs above the old County Court scale may be questioned, and actions may be taken against any person, whether a party, a solicitor, or a sheriff, who has levied the costs of such judgment. Hence it is obviously necessary that there should be immediate legislation to ratify these judgments, and to give Circuit Court judges power to award reasonable costs, proper to the amounts and difficulties of the cases they have decided, pending the introduction of a permanent scale of costs in the Circuit Court.

It also appears to be urgently necessary that legislation should be immediately provided for the introduction of a scale of costs in the High Court, dealing with those cases in which plaintiffs recover less than £300.

This latter matter is one which has been dealt with most definitely in paragraphs 97 to 101 of the report of the Joint Committee, and there seems no reason why these paragraphs should not be given effect to at once.

It would seem to me to be desirable that this legislation should be brought in without delay, but that it should in no sense be regarded as a permanent solution of the defects in the Judicial System, which are being complained of by the public, and that these defects will not be cured until the new system of appeal from the Circuit Court is established, and additional judges are appointed in the High Courts, as recommended by the Joint Committee.

A SENIOR COUNSEL'S VIEW.

DIFFICULTIES STATED.

I do not think that the members of the public realise the effect of the decision of the Supreme Court, was the reply of a leading senior member of the Bar, whom I approached on this question, but, he added, individual litigants will realise it

From Reuter's Correspondent.
BASRAH, Tuesday.

MR. J. A. MOLLISON, the Australian pilot who is flying from Australia to England and attempting to break the record of 10 days 23 hours set up by Mr. C. W. A. Scott, took off from here for the aerodrome of Shaibah, Iraq, at midnight.

Mr. Mollison arrived here yesterday evening, and was then extremely tired owing to having made several hops in his flight with very little rest, and went to bed immediately without saying more than a few words.

This is the sixth day of his flight, as he left Wyndham, West Australia, at 1 a.m. on July 29

From Reuter's Correspondent.
ALEPPO, Tuesday.

Mr. J. A. Mollison reached here at 2 p.m. this afternoon after having flown steadily through the night and morning over the deserts of Mesopotamia.

After a hurried meal he snatched a few hours' sleep before taking off again at 9 this evening for another night flight across the Mediterranean to Athens.

COLONEL LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT.

ARRIVAL AT TRADING POST WITH WIFE.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who are flying to the Far East by easy stages, via Northern Canada, reached Baker Lake from Churchill (Manitoba), at 5 p.m. yesterday, and were expected to take off from Hunter Bay, Great Bear Lake, this morning.

Anxiety was felt in Ottawa during the night, as bad wireless static conditions prevented word being received of the fliers.

Later.

Colonel Lindbergh and his wife arrived at the Coniffar trading settlement of Baker Lake, on the west of Hudson Bay at 2.17 this morning from Churchill (Manitoba), thus completing the third lap of their flight to Japan via the Canadian Arctic region.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
OTTAWA, Wednesday.

Colonel Lindbergh and his wife, who are flying to Japan, via Northern Canada, "hopped off" from Baker Lake for Aklavik at 6.35 p.m. yesterday, "Eastern standard time," according to a wireless message received here.

PROGRESS OF OTHER FLIGHTS.

ATTEMPTS ON RECORDS ABANDONED.

Miss Amy Johnson and Mr. C. S. Humphreys, who are flying from the United States to Tokyo, have turned back half-way between Chita, Siberia and Harbin, Manchuria, owing to shortage of petrol and spent last night at Khailin, Manchuria.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
HARBIN, MANCHURIA, Tuesday.

Miss Johnson plans to resume her flight at four o'clock to-morrow morning. Miss Johnson and Mr. C. S. Humphreys state that they hope to reach Tokyo on Thursday.

Mr. Reg Robins and Mr. H. S. Jones have given up their attempt to fly nonstop from Seattle to Tokyo. They were forced down in a fog in the Lower Yukon Valley, being unable to make contact with their re-fuelling 'plane.

Mr. Pangbourn and Mr. Herndon, who have abandoned their attempt on the Post-Gatty round the world record, are detained in Khabarovsk, Siberia, by bad weather.

Mr. Boardman and Mr. Polando, the New York-Istambul record-breakers, are resting in Turkey for two or three days, and will probably fly to Karachi during the week, visiting the chief towns en route.

BERG'S "COME BACK."

POINTS VICTORY OVER McNAMARA.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Pleasant weather attracted about 12,000 spectators to the Queensborough Stadium to-night, where Kid Berg and Jimmy McNamara met.

ROUND 1.

Berg quickly got to work, and forced McNamara on to the ropes with rights to the body and jaw. McNamara fought back, and landed with a left and right to Berg's jaw. Berg was stung into retaliation, and launched a two-fisted attack on the American's body, but the latter, a rugged and experienced fighter, stood his ground and exchanged punches. The round finished even.

ROUND 2.

Berg received a slight cut over his right eye early in this round, but it did not ease him up. He had McNamara on the ropes, where he pounded away until the latter landed with a good left uppercut. Berg replied with a left and right to the head, and again had McNamara on the ropes. McNamara, however, fought back like a demon and stung Berg with some good lefts. Berg's round.

ROUND 3.

Berg rushed out to meet his opponent, who already seemed to be a trifle tired. Berg warmed to his task, and landed with three whirlwind lefts; but later, in his eagerness, Berg struck McNamara low, and was warned by the referee. The American, however, showed that he suffered no ill-effects from the blow when he scored with a succession of lefts. McNamara's round on a foul only.

ROUND 4.

Both men met in the middle of the ring, where some fierce exchanges took place. As the result of these Berg's left eye was bleeding, but he fought away in non-stop fashion. McNamara took his cue from Berg and attacked fiercely, and pierced Berg's defence with some hard lefts. Berg retaliated, and scored with lefts to the jaw and ribs. Berg's round.

McNamara drew first blood by landing with a left hook to Berg's ear, but the latter, with a stiff left jab, forced McNamara to retreat. They clinched, but Berg, with his back to the ropes, fought hard, one stinging left cutting McNamara's left eye. This had the effect of steadying up the American, but Berg was not content to let him rest, and drove him to the ropes, where he handed out some severe punishment, to finish the round easily ahead on points.

ROUND 6.

Berg tore from his corner, and scored with a left to the ribs, followed by two hard rights. Berg got McNamara on the ropes, and punished him unmercifully. This was too much for the American, who slipped to the canvas from a terrific right to the body. He rose before the referee could start counting, but he was in a very bad state. He floundered about the ring, missing by feet, and took a great thrashing before the bell sounded. Easily Berg's round.

RESULT.

Berg won on points.

CARNERA WINS IN THIRD ROUND.

Carnera knocked out Roberti in the third round at Newark, New Jersey, last night.

"A NAVY SECOND TO NONE."

UNITED STATES POLICY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Tuesday.

The necessity for maintaining the Naval establishment of the United States in a condition to permit of rapid expansion in the event of war is stressed in a new statement of policy, published by the Navy Department.

The intention of the United States to "create, maintain and operate a Navy second to none, in conformity with Treaty provisions," is reiterated, but the phraseology is changed in order to bring the statement into accord with the London Treaty, as well as with the Washington Agreement. Thus, whereas the cruiser policy two years ago definitely declared against building any more small cruisers, the new statement simply specifies that it is the intention to "build and maintain the cruiser tonnage as permitted by the Treaty provisions," which allow eighteen cruisers with 8-inch guns, and a 143,500 total tonnage for those carrying six-inch guns.

AIRCRAFT.

The policy with regard to heavier-than-air machines is considerably enlarged, in order to provide for the operations of aeroplanes from aircraft-carriers, battleships, and cruisers, to provide for their full authorised complement, and to allow for developing more efficient types of naval aircraft.

Industrial mobilisation in time of warfare is also contemplated under another new provision.

THE SCHNEIDER TROPHY.

ITALY'S PLANS STILL A SECRET.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
LAKE OF GARDA, Tuesday.

Though no further official information regarding the death of Captain Monti is available, it is known that the machine in which he was flying at the time of the accident was one of two new machines specially constructed for the Schneider Cup contest, and capable, it has been estimated, of reaching a speed of 400 m.p.h. Captain Monti had been flying only a few minutes when the aeroplane crashed into the water close to the point of Sirmione, where the depth of the lake is about 300 feet.

The salvage operations have continued unceasingly since the time of the accident, but so far without result. It is extremely doubtful whether even if the engine, which was a Fiat of 2,700 h.p., is recovered intact, that there will be time to refit it for the race.

It is believed that the third machine which was made for the contest is due to arrive any day at Desenzano, if, indeed, it has not already been received. Extreme secrecy is being maintained concerning the whole of the preparations, and it is, therefore, impossible to give any precise information regarding either the pilots or machines which are to take part.

It is known, however, that Lieutenant Neri is to succeed Captain Monti as leader of the Italian team.

LEAP FROM BLAZING 'PLANE.

ARMY OFFICER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SEVILLE, Tuesday.

A lieutenant piloting a military aeroplane which caught fire when in flight had a narrow escape from death yesterday. He descended in the blazing 'plane until only a few feet from the ground and then jumped clear, escaping unhurt. The machine was, however, completely wrecked.

RIALTO BRIDGE ACCIDENT.

A boy named Michael O'Donoghue, with an address at Mount Brown, Dublin, fell off a bicycle at Rialto Bridge, Dublin, last night. His head hit a stationary van, and he was taken to Steevens's Hospital suffering from concussion. He was still unconscious early this morning.

CIRCUIT COURTS.

only when they contemplate, or are engaged in, legal proceedings.

The limit of the jurisdiction of the old County Court, he pointed out, was £50 in actions of contracts, and also in actions for damages and other wrongs. The amount of the costs and witnesses' expenses which a successful defendant or plaintiff could be compelled to pay was limited by Act of Parliament, and there was a scale of costs proportionate to the amount recovered, the maximum in a £50 action being £4, or a little more.

Now, actions of £300 may be instituted in the Circuit Courts with the right to a jury, and trials in substantial cases often run into days, involving a great number of witnesses and the attendance of solicitors and counsel. A successful plaintiff or defendant in a £300 action may be forced to great expense to defend his rights. The net result of the decision of the Supreme Court appears to be that the witnesses' expenses which his successful opponent can be compelled to pay will be limited to £5, and the costs to something less, just as if it were a simple claim for £50 for goods sold and delivered, which is only defended for the purpose of getting time to pay.

But this is by no means the only difficulty. The Circuit Court Judges and the Taxing Masters of the High Court have been measuring costs and witnesses' expenses on what appeared to be a reasonable basis. The Supreme Court has decided that there was no jurisdiction to do this, and as a result it would seem that all decrees on this basis are ultra vires and invalid, and cannot be enforced; or in respect of decrees which have been executed it is possible that damages may be recovered for illegal seizure, and repayment may be demanded. If decrees have not been executed, then the under-sheriffs will probably refuse to execute them.

It is possible to register a Circuit Court judgment as a judgment mortgage, and such judgment mortgages or proceedings based on them may be set aside if the decrees are invalid. A purchaser of property in a sale by a judgment mortgagee may have a very precarious title.

Where an action for damages is instituted in the High Courts and a jury awards less than £300—such as in a motor accident case involving the attendance of several doctors and other witnesses, and possibly running into two or three days—the law as declared by the decision of the Supreme Court will work great hardship.

AN URGENT MATTER.

To limit the total costs of such an action to a negligible amount would possibly deprive the unfortunate plaintiff of the whole benefit of his damages.

If the matter is not remedied, it will mean that a poor man who is injured cannot risk bringing an action in the High Court, for fear that a jury may not award an amount sufficient to entitle him to High Court costs, and if he brings his action in the Circuit Court his damages will be limited to £300, no matter how grave an injury he has suffered. Even in the Circuit Court he will have no adequate indemnity for the costs and expenses he incurred.

It is clear that some form of legislation is necessary, and should be introduced at once, to validate existing decrees and remedy the situation. Trade organisations and public bodies should certainly take the matter up at once.

ALPINE MOTOR TRIALS.

BRITISH CAR'S SUCCESS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GENEVA, Tuesday.

Defying boulders, which often shot up from the road and broke his floor boards, Donald Healey, driving an Invicta, reached here to-day after a fifteen-hour run from Nice, not having lost a single mark in his five days' Alpine trial, which began at Munich last Friday.

Healey's is the only British car not to have lost any marks over the whole trial, which concludes to-morrow with a run to Berne.

This Cornish garage proprietor has driven his British made Invicta at the head of a long stream of German, Austrian, Czecho-Slovakian, American and Italian cars—no less than sixty of them—through France, Germany, Italy, Austria and Switzerland for five days, and he still leads. To-morrow Donald Healey will make a final dash past Mont Blanc, and up and down half a dozen passes to Berne, where the international Alpine trial finishes after having covered 1,500 miles of mountain roads in six days.

Healey is expected to score his second successive victory in the trial by winning the Coupe des Glaciers to-morrow without the loss of a single mark.

ON THE ROOF OF EUROPE.

This 1,500 miles has been done on the roof of Europe, with glaciers ever visible from one side or the other, and often with the menace of avalanches crashing down the mountain-side on to the car. Healey is the hero of the trial. Can he crown his success by beating the Germans in a great duel to-morrow over the 241 miles to Berne? The battle between Britain and Germany will be waged fiercely over the formidable Col D'Izoard, whose many hairpin bends—many with drops of 1,000ft. or more should one go over the edge at the turn—will seal the fate of more than one car and driver, so far as success in this trial goes.

Healey has lost no marks. A German and an Austrian stand with him with a clean sheet. To-morrow this trio fight out the battle to a finish.

THE BABY CARS.

Britain is well to the fore in the Baby Car Class, with Lord de Clifford's M.G. Midget, which with only 2 marks lost, may spring a surprise as the smallest car in the race by winning the Coupe des Glaciers for its class, and completing a dual British triumph. Lord de Clifford is faced by two Germans who have lost no marks at all.

The British Rileys, which had covered 1,400 miles so brilliantly to-day lost Captain Riley, J. Hobbs and R. C. Porter who had to retire from the contest.

In group 2 another British car, which has lost only a single point, is the Clement-Talbot, driven by Symons.

NEW SOUTH WALES SALARIES.

GOVERNMENT BILL AMENDED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SYDNEY, Tuesday.

The clause in the New South Wales Salaries Bill, making £500 a year the maximum salary for a civil servant, has been removed.

An amended form of the bill was passed by the Legislative Council to-day by a majority of 28 to 20. This substitutes for the £500 a year maximum a graduated scale of reductions rising from 10 per cent. on salaries of £104 a year to 29½ per cent. on salaries over £500 a year. It is estimated that this scheme will result in a saving of £1,850,000 a year.

In its original form the bill, in addition to imposing a £500 a year maximum, reduced the wages of Government employés who were paid weekly by 20 per cent.

WELSH MOUNTAIN ACCIDENT.

CLIMBER FALLS 200 FEET.

COMPANIONS' ALL-NIGHT VIGIL.

NEWS reached Llandudno yesterday that Mr. Richard Charles Clinker, an elderly man, of Hilton, Rugby, who was one of a party of four climbers scaling Carnedd Llewellyn, had slipped into an abyss and received fatal injuries. His three companions, who returned to Capel Curig early yesterday, are suffering severely from exposure.

Mr. Clinker and his three friends, who were named Wadsworth, and also belonged to Hilton, had been staying at Capel Curig.

FALL OF 200 FEET.

They set out on Monday from Dolgarrog with the intention of climbing Carnedd Llewellyn, which is the second highest mountain in Wales. The conditions seemed ideal. They had been climbing for some hours, and were making an attempt on Craig-yr-Isfa, a notorious spur, somewhat off the beaten track, when Mr. Clinker slipped as the party were passing over the edge of a precipice, and fell headlong into the abyss.

His companions could see him lying on the jagged rocks two hundred feet below. Using ropes, they made the perilous descent, reaching where he lay after nearly an hour's toil. They found him unconscious and suffering from injuries to the head and the upper part of the body. Using pieces of material torn from their clothes and handkerchiefs, they rendered first aid.

It was impossible to move the injured man unaided, and one of the Wadsworth brothers set out over the mountains, and reached Capel Curig in an exhausted condition.

HELP ARRIVES TOO LATE.

Immediately that the news of the accident was received a stretcher party started out. Two climbers, with considerable knowledge of the Carnedd, fell in with the rescue party and accompanied them. They reached a gully, near to where Mr. Clinker lay, at dawn, after four hours' climbing in darkness and mist.

With great difficulty they descended with the stretcher, and were about to carry the unconscious man away when he died. It was found impracticable to return with the body to Capel Curig, and the rescue party carried it over the mountains and down to Dolgarrog.

They did not return to Capel Curig until 9 a.m., after having been out for twelve hours.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN UNITED STATES.

MAY REACH 7,000,000 MARK BY WINTER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW BEDFORD (MASS.), Tuesday.

The calling of a Conference of Economists by Mr. Hoover in an effort to remedy the existing state of unemployment was a proposal made here to-day by Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labour. As an alternative Mr. Green asks the President to admit that "the present economic structure of the country is an absolute failure."

It was recently estimated that unless the situation showed immediate improvement there were likely to be 7,000,000 unemployed by the winter.

It is stated that Mr. Hoover hopes to alleviate conditions by the reorganisation of the Federal Employment Bureau of the Department of Labour.

NOTED AMERICAN LAWYER.

DEATH OF MR. WALTER PLATT COOKE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BUFFALO, NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Mr. Walter Platt Cooke, one of America's most noted lawyers and public men, died here to-day. He was 62 years of age.

Mr. Cooke served as chairman of four Liberty Loan campaigns during the war, and was on the Executive Committee of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Cooke was President of the Arbitral Tribunal of Interpretation, which decided controversies between Germany and the Reparations Commission in 1925-26. A year later he served as American member of the Reparations Commission in Paris.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The arrangement of the French and American credit of £50,000,000 for the Bank of England was naturally much discussed in the city yesterday, and, on the whole, the opinion expressed was favourable, though it is fully recognised that in itself the measure cannot provide a solution of the financial problems with which the country is faced. The general disposition is to regard the development as an indication that the position may become really serious if confidence in sterling and in the financial stability of Great Britain is not restored. The provision of this credit has already had some favourable effect upon the Foreign Exchanges, but an upward movement there, much more pronounced, is desirable, and, perhaps, this cannot be expected until there is some indication of the Government's attitude towards the recent report of the Committee on National Expenditure. It is assured that the next Bank of England return will show that the fiduciary issue has been increased by £15,000,000 in accordance with the sanction received from the Treasury, whilst there will be a corresponding adjustment of other items, such as the holding of securities against the increased amount of notes. The Stock Exchange was, probably, impressed by the promptitude with which the bankers have dealt with a very exceptional situation, in sharp contrast with the attitude frequently adopted in other directions when dealing with different problems. Long-dated British Government Stocks enjoyed a fair improvement, with exceptional weakness in 5 per cent. War Loan, because of the recent reference by Mr. Snowden to a plan for a conversion of this important part of the National Debt. To lower the price of 5 per cent. War Loan seems to be somewhat illogical; for it is inconceivable that any conversion project can be launched for a considerable time to come, and the city still believes that the acceptance of any conversion scheme would be voluntary on the part of War Loan holders. Evidently the theory is that, with such a plan in prospect, a good many holders will be induced to exchange now into a definitely long-dated security in case the terms of the conversion should prove to be a distinctly bear point for the 5 per cent. War Loan. This would also partly explain the firmness of long-dated stocks, while a further appreciation in these latter is certainly not justified by the monetary outlook. The condition of unsettlement, which seems likely to obtain for at least the next month or two, will, probably, drive any surplus capital into "safety first" stocks. At such times the question of the yield afforded is a secondary consideration. What is desired is security of capital.

BOY WHO WAS BITTEN BY DOGS.

On inquiry at Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, Dublin, early this morning, it was learned that the condition of Owen Byrne, who was bitten by four dogs a week ago, was slightly improved. He is, however, still in a critical condition.

U.S. MARKETS.

EASY CLOSE.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Tuesday.

The absence of stimulating news and a lack of sustained buying power, together with evidence of technical difficulties attending negotiations for the maintenance of credits to Germany, led Wall street interests to expect a narrow trading market. The opening was easy, and Copper issues weakened following a reduction in the export price of the commodity to 8 cents. Business was extremely dull, the turnover reaching its lowest rate for recent years. The market drifted downwards, pivotal stocks losing a point or more.

Initial transactions in Socony-Vacuum Corporation, which is a consolidation of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company, were effected at 18. Bankers were unable to explain the reason for the weakness of sterling. Rails were also weak, although there were no notable developments in the railway situation.

Easiness in wheat prices was attributed to the German import restriction, which dashed hopes that the United States would be able to dispose of their surplus to Germany. This also helped to depress stocks. In the late dealings short covering reduced most of the earlier losses, but the market closed easy.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

General selling developed on the Wheat market under the influence of easier Winnipeg advices and bearish foreign crop news. Speculative interest was poor, and prices continued to weaken on predictions of cooler and showery weather in the spring wheat area, together with moderate hedge pressure and a lack of buying power. Trading, however, was quiet, with profit-taking in evidence. Maize values were depressed by commission house selling due to the weakness in wheat, larger country offerings and a slow cash demand. Business was without noteworthy feature, the weakness of the Stock market and increased selling of December causing further easiness. Later in the day a rally was encouraged by unfavourable North-Western crop reports, improved support and short covering. Rye declined in sympathy with weakness in wheat, while oats prices receded under hedge selling.

SEARCH BY AIR FOR CHARLIE CHAPLIN.

WOMAN'S ANXIETY TO SUBMIT PLAY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NICE, Tuesday.

In order to submit to Charlie Chaplin the scenario for a new film which she has just written, a wealthy Englishwoman, of middle age, has flown thousands of miles. Hiring a private aeroplane, she has already flown to Austria, Germany and the French Riviera in order to meet him, but has, so far, not succeeded. She has flown now to Paris, where she hopes to succeed at last in her quest.

FISHING BOAT MISSING.

Fears were entertained last night for a fishing boat belonging to Methil on the Firth of Forth coast, which left there for North Berwick on Sunday morning, and sailed again the same evening for Methil, a distance of twelve miles across the Firth. Nothing further has been heard of the boat.

The missing men are:—Edwin Watson, restaurant keeper, of Innerleven; George Robertson, and Peter Munro, both of Methil.

AN IRISH VICTORY—Ireland had a good start in the military jumping competitions, Captain D. Corry winning yesterday's event on Finghin, with Captain Lequio (Italy) second, Lieutenant J. A. Talbot-Ponsonby (England) third, Captain R. G. Oern (Sweden) fourth, and Lieutenant W. M. Cleland (Canada) fifth. The photograph shows Mr. Justice Wylie presenting rosettes to the successful competitors, who are placed, from left to right, according to the result of the contest.

THE BRIGHTON CARD.

ZANE GREY FANCIED FOR THE CUP.

THE best contest of the whole Brighton meeting may be the Brighton Cup, to be run to-day, for the race will bring into opposition some extremely good horses over the middle distance. Prince Paradise and Break of Day will be absent, but two recent winners over the course—The Cheerful Abbot and On Watch—will be among the starters. The Cheerful Abbot has done exceptionally well this season, for though he has had only two outings each has been a winning one. Prior to his victory in the Balcombe Handicap at Brighton, he won the Chipstead Handicap at Epsom without ever being headed.

Zane Grey was entered in three races this week, but this is the event chosen for him. I have always had a high opinion of this son of Warden of the Marches. He gave Rose en Soleil the race of his life at Liverpool, and was beaten only by a short head by D. Waugh's classic colt. Silver Mount, in consequence of her victory at Hurst Park, has a 6lb. penalty to carry, but the filly is not overweighted, while Grand Prince, a good Sandown Park winner, is thought to possess a sound chance. Sonometer and the low-weighted Prince Evan are others to appeal, but my selection rests on Zane Grey.

I anticipate a particularly good race for the Sussex Plate, a sprint event. Suspicion is already on the spot for this event, and she showed a great deal of improvement when she ran Welsh Dame to a short head at Goodwood. Atherton represents W. Nightingall instead of Basra and Fingle Bridge, and has won his last three races, beating such as Canfield, Meritondy and Knowl Bill. Cedarwood is unreliable, but Caraquette has a sound chance on the balance of her running this season. She has finished among the placed horses in her four outings, and may do a little better on this occasion and win.

The last race is an apprentice plate, and is not the type of race in which I care to have a financial interest, but for those who care to have a bet Millstone and Jonathan Gee appear about the best of the lot. Millstone has done well in maiden races, but Jonathan Gee, who goes well for an apprentice, has the vote.

Gossip from Newmarket.

Tantine and the Cambridgeshire : Hints for Brighton To-day.

NEWMARKET, Tuesday.

WE had two heavy downfalls of rain during the night, and the morning was dull and sultry. The best work took place on the Bury side, where R. Day gave Wall Street, with Master Mint, a good-pace gallop over one mile, and the former seems certain to put up a good race for the Brighton Handicap on Thursday.

Collina conducted herself in good style in a mile spin. She has been showing good form in her gallops, and should pick up a minor race before long.

LIKELY NURSERY WINNER.

F. Leach gave his son Jack the mount on Highwayman, and, with Chalcedony colt, he was rattled along over five furlongs. In the spring Highwayman was tried to be smart, but he ran three times unplaced. He did sufficiently well, however, to bear in mind when the juvenile handicaps come along at the beginning of next month.

The Green Lodge trainer gave his Eclipse Stakes failure, Goyescas, a smart five-furlong spin with Tippets, Sphinx II., Pharian and Sedlranda.

I was disappointed with Applerley's running at Goodwood. He moved well over a good seven-furlong spin with Estate Duty, Craig-Bhan, Oban and Kama, and although the son of Papyrus is now a tubed horse I have not lost faith in him winning a nice race over a shorter distance than that over which he ran at Goodwood.

Frank Butters was busy and gave Tantine a good six-furlong spin with Virgin's Folly and Véréludes. Tantine ran very well in her last race, and it is quite likely I may have to write favourably about her for the Cambridgeshire, for which event she will be well treated.

Sans Espoir went well in a good eleven furlongs spin with Gallic and Treminnie. Sans Espoir found one too many for him in the Goodwood Stakes at Goodwood. It was, nevertheless, a good performance, and he will make a good effort to make amends by winning the Ebor Handicap. Treminnie should shortly win a nice race.

BRIGHTON FANCIES.

We are poorly represented at Brighton to-morrow. Penny Royal and run for the Juvenile Selling Plate, and the latter should win.

MIDSCOPE

is well and should run forward for the Stanmer Selling High-Weight Handicap.

On the strength of his good race against Rose en Soleil at Liverpool will be well supported for the Brighton Cup and should win.

CARAQUETTE (next best)

has been bang on the premises in her last four races, and should win the Sussex Stakes, and may win the Apprentices' Plate.

JONATHAN GEE

WALKER PROMISED BOUT WITH SCHMELING.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling's manager, has promised Mickey Walker a match with Schmeling for the world title next June, says the New York Mirror. Jacobs, who is sailing in the Bremen to join Schmeling, said that if the injury to Schmeling's eye had healed the fight would take place earlier, probably in February.

CON O'KELLY LOSES TO BERGOMAS.

Con O'Kelly, the Hull heavy-weight, lost on points to the twenty-two years old Italian, Giacomo Bergomas, over ten rounds at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Monday. The contest was the second between the two men, the first having resulted in a draw. Bergomas, who stands 6ft. 4in. and weighs 14½st., fought with some success in Europe, and has now come to the United States in quest of Carnera's scalp.

Johnny Kerr, the Scottish middle-weight, lost the decision to Harold Henderson, of Illinois, in a six round bout on the same programme.

Jose Santa, the Portuguese, gained the decision against Leon Chevalier, the San Francisco negro, in a ten round bout at Oakland, California, on Monday. Santa scaled 17st. 11lb., and Chevalier 14st. 7lb. Chevalier, it will be recalled, was one of Carnera's "little lambs" on the occasion of the Italian's first invasion of the United States, when he scored a string of quick knockout victories. The result of the fight, which, it was alleged, was a "set up," was afterwards the subject of an inquiry by the New York State Athletic Commission, which resulted in Carnera and his manager being suspended indefinitely.

CRICKET.

PAYNTER'S GREAT EFFORT

SURREY FAIL BEFORE LARWOOD AND VOCE.

THE thunderstorm which broke over London on Monday night was chiefly responsible for some startling cricket at the Oval yesterday, which resulted in Notts gaining an easy victory over Surrey by nine wickets. Surrey enjoyed a lead of 65 runs with all their wickets in hand, but Voce and Larwood, bowling unchanged, proved so deadly that Surrey were all out in eighty-five minutes for 82. Hobbs alone really summed up the difficulties which faced the batsmen, and though he frequently mis-hit the ball he played the right game. He left at 65, and the remaining seven wickets fell in forty minutes for an addition of 17 runs.

After recent injuries, Voce and Larwood showed they have fully recovered their form, and Larwood in one deadly spell obtained all his four wickets with twelve deliveries at a cost of a single. Bowling round the wicekt, Voce came out with six wickets at a fraction over seven runs apiece. Left to get 147 to win, Notts made light work of their task. George Gunn, batting with all his old brilliance, hit 6 fours in carrying out his bat.

MIDDLESEX FAIL.

So far from Middlesex making a good fight of it in the concluding stages of Bowley's benefit match at Brighton, their batting broke down badly, and by a quarter to four Sussex had gained a splendid victory by nine wickets. This result was really brought about by some most effective bowling by James Langridge, clever length and spin, together with skilful flighting, making him difficult to score from. He was backed up very well by Cornford, who, in the whole innings, stumped three men and caught two, and did not give away a bye. All the same, the batting of most of the Middlesex men proved either weak or rash. In forty-five minutes after lunch the last six wickets whent down for 43 runs.

QUICK WIN FOR GLOUCESTER.

Gloucestershire took only ninety minutes to put out Hampshire at Southampton, and to win by 256 runs. The pitch was full of trouble for the batsmen; for, following a thunderstorm overnight, a hot sun in the morning made it extremely tricky. Hampshire, who went in needing 362 runs to win, never looked like winning or even saving the game, and, indeed, their task was obviously impossible of accomplishment. The first wicket—Bailey's—fell with nine runs on the board, and there was scarcely a check to the triumphant progress of the Gloucestershire bowlers. Goddard proved in deadly form, and though the later batsmen, hitting out in sheer desperation, scored a few runs, he dismissed half the side for a fraction over seven runs each.

Worcestershire beat Essex at Worcester by nine wickets, a result that seemed likely overnight, when Essex, with seven wickets in hand, still required 45 runs to save the innings' defeat. The innings closed for 256, the last five wickets producing only 50 runs. Set to get 61 to win, Worcestershire obtained them for the loss of Quaife. This was Worcestershire's fifth win this season.

MERCER'S BIG HITTING.

Some hurricane hitting by Mercer enabled Glamorgan to save the innings' defeat against New Zealanders at Swansea, when the tourists were set only 33 runs to get, and won by nine wickets. Mercer's score of 62 in half an hour was his highest in first class cricket, and provided a thrilling display of big hitting. He hit no fewer than six 6's, once sending the ball on to the top of the grand stand, from where it could not be recovered. He also got three 4's, and his partnership with Clay for the ninth wicket realised 62 runs in twenty minutes. Mercer gave only one chance, being missed in the outfield when 23.

After a keen fight at Leicester the match was left drawn, Northants taking the points for the first innings' lead. The conditions changed several times during the day. When play began Leicestershire were still 64 in arrear and two wickets were down. Berry, missed overnight when 20, went on to play his best innings and make the highest score of any Leicestershire player this season. Towards the end he was hitting out at almost everything, and in twenty minutes after lunch he scored 38, including seven 4's. When caught at long-off he had made 156 out of 266, incidentally, completing his 1,000, in three hours and fifty-five minutes, his hits including a 6 and nineteen 4's.

PAYNTER'S GREAT BATTING.

The match at Sheffield ended in a draw, Yorkshire taking first innings point for the second time against Lancashire this season. Lancashire had to follow-on 263 behind, but Paynter, in a gallant effort, did much to stave off defeat. He lost Hallows at 26, but Ernest Tyldesley stayed two hours, while 102 were added for the second partnership. Paynter, who remained unbeaten, was in all day without giving a chance. Batting for three and a half hours in his second innings, he hit nine 4's.

ANOTHER "HAT TRICK" FOR MONKS.

CAIRO, Tuesday.

Three hat-tricks in one match is the unique record of Leading Aircraftman Monks, of the Royal Air Force. In the Army's first innings yesterday Monks did the hat-trick, and afterwards took the last four wickets in successive balls, a bowling feat equalled only by Albert Trott in 1907. To-day Monks eclipsed Albert Trott's feat by performing another hat-trick in the Army's second innings, thereby being largely instrumental in the Air Force beating the Army by 37 runs.

JUPP COMPLETES "DOUBLE."

In taking the third of his four wickets in the Leicestershire second innings, at Leicester yesterday, V. W. C. Jupp, the Northamptonshire captain, achieved the "cricketer's double," of scoring 1,000 runs and securing 100 wickets, being the first man to do so this season. This is the eighth occasion upon which Jupp has performed the feat.

COWES OPENS IN A LIGHT BREEZE.

THE KING'S CUP WON BY SHAMROCK V.

There was a light east to north-easterly breeze blowing at Cowes yesterday when the Royal Yacht Squadron opened their usual four days' festival. Interest centred in the race for the King's Cup, for which all British boats of 60ft. are now eligible. Britannia had entered, but did not start. Shamrock V. led early in the race, and won comfortably. The remaining three events were well supported and although a little more breeze was desirable a fair day's sport was witnessed.

The starters and time allowances in the race for His Majesty's Cup (open to British yachts of 60ft. l.w.l. or over, were—Westward (scratch), Astra (5m. 52s.), Candida (5m. 52s.), Shamrock V. (5m. 52s.), Norada (21m. 48s.), Moonbeam (29m. 12s.), Cariad (36m. 24s.), Golden Hind (42m.), Cynara (46m.).

They started at 11 o'clock, the course being a distance of 40 miles, the order over the line being Astra, Candida, Shamrock V., Moonbeam, Westward, Cynara, Norada, Cariad and Golden Hind. The two leaders started a luffing match, and gave Shamrock V. the advantage and, after a run to the Solent Bank and a beat eastwards, the green cutter was nearly seven minutes ahead of Candida, which had just headed Astra. Westward was then fourth, followed by Moonbeam, Norada, Cariad and Cynara. After rounding, Shamrock V. completely sailed away from the fleet during the second round, and won easily. The breeze had slackened, and there were several retirements. Corrected times:—

	H.	M.	S.
Shamrock (winner)	4	16	0
Candida (2nd)	4	45	15
Astra	4	57	30
Moonbeam	5	33	12

The remainder gave up. Third prize is subject to Astra making declaration.

The race for the 50 tons to 110 tons handicap attracted five starters, Dorina and Mispania, the scratch boats, leading over the starting line at 11.15. They took a long time to cover the two rounds, Dorina being first home at a late hour. Patience finishing second.

Five of the 12-Metre Class turned out at 11.20 to sail a 26-mile course, Zoraida, Moyana and Vanity getting away well together. Veronica and Flica were recalled, but the first-named failed to respond to the signal and sailed on.

The finish was:—

	H.	M.	S.
Zoraida (winner)	3	42	5
Flica (2nd prize)	3	42	22
Moyana (3rd prize)	3	43	10
Veronica disqualified.

The finishing times in the 8-Metre Class were: Cutty (winner), 2h. 17m. 35s.; Unity (2nd prize), 2h. 18m.; Cluaran (third prize), 2h. 18m. 1s.

The Royal London Yacht Club catered for the Solent Classes, including the 6-Metre International Class, while the larger yachts were racing under the flag of the Royal Yacht Squadron. The results were:—

6-Metre International Class—Prudence (winner), 2h. 45m. 1s.; Nada (2nd), 2h. 47m. 29s.; Feima (3rd), 2h. 50m. 16s.

West Solent Restricted Class—Dinah (winner), 3h. 33m. 18s.; Jade (2nd), 3h. 33m. 19s.; Sapphire (3rd), 3h. 38m. 24s.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW.—The attendance of buyers here was small, and the supply, which was large, following holiday, proved in excess of all requirements. Still, there was a fair inquiry for best sorts, which were cleared early at a few pence per cwt. under last day. Other classes were a slow, dragging sale, but eventually cleared at a further reduction in prices. Prime classes, 3/6 to 3/9 cwt., in one or two cases 4/-; secondary and poorer sorts, 2/1 to 3/3. The supply of straw was very light, being made up of wheaten sorts. Quality of arrivals of poor or middling class. The few choice loads on offer were quickly cashed around 5/- per cwt., while the poorer sorts were neglected, and prices dropped as low as 3/9 to clear.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

WIFE-BEATING IN PONY TRAP.

GALLOPING ANIMAL STOPPED BY SOLDIERS.

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

How a galloping pony was stopped by Free State soldiers outside Collins Barracks was described when Guard 144 D charged John Quinn (47), of Lower Gloucester street, a coal hawker, with furiously driving his pony trap between 11 and 12 o'clock on the previous night. The defendant was further charged with assaulting his wife at the same time and place.

The guard said that the defendant drove the pony at galloping pace through the main gates of the Phœnix Park into Parkgate street. He was beating his wife, while the reins were lying loose on the pony's back, and his two children were screaming in the trap. Several people tried to stop the animal, but it raced on to the front of Collins Barracks, where the military stopped it. Meanwhile one of the children jumped out into the roadway.

Mrs. Charlotte Quinn told the Court that her husband took her and the children out to the Strawberry Beds on the previous afternoon. He had some drink there, and when it came to lighting-up time he could not find the lamp for the trap. He tried to make a light with a bit of candle and a broken lemonade bottle. While she was arguing with him about the lamp, the pony, which was always restless, took fright, and "went like a mad thing through the gates."

In sentencing the defendant to a month's imprisonment, the Justice said: "It seems to me that it is the mercy of Providence that you are not here on a very grave charge. You might have seriously injured or killed a number of people by your recklessness."

The defendant's wife burst into tears and implored the Justice to impose a fine instead of imprisonment. Mr. Hannan declined to alter his decision, and when Mr. Patrick Campbell, solicitor, intimated that an appeal might be decided upon he fixed sureties at £15 and two independent sureties of £10 each.

STAFF SALARIES.

CLERK CHARGED WITH CONVERSION.

On a charge of converting to his own use about £670 entrusted to him for the payment of staff salaries, John S. Smith (34), a clerk in the Education Office, Marlborough street, was remanded until Friday on personal bail of £2,000 and two independent sureties of £1,000 each.

Mr. Clarke (Chief Solicitor's Office) prosecuted, and Mr. Morris, solicitor, defended.

Detective-Sergeant Wyer said that that morning the accused man, accompanied by his solicitor, went to the Bridewell to surrender. In a statement he said that he was aware that a warrant was out for his arrest, and consequently he surrendered to submit himself to justice.

Mr. Morris said that the defendant was a son of one of the best-known men in the city, and his father and a prominent man would go bail.

Mr. Clarke said that the total alleged defalcations might be more than £700.

HOUSE AGENT CHARGED.

John McNeice (34), Windy Arbour, Dundrum, carrying on business as a house agent in Talbot street, Dublin, and Peter Fagan (30), a clerk employed by McNeice, with an address in Lower Ormond quay, were remanded until Friday next, charged with conspiring, between May and June last, to defraud Edward James Fotterdell, Upper George's street, Dun Laoghaire, of various sums of money, amounting to about £230, by pretending that they would build a house and shop for him on the Clonturk Park Estate.

A similar remand was granted in the case of Thomas A. Guest (24), a painter, of Brian road, Fairview, who was charged with obtaining £15 from Mr. Fotterdell by falsely representing himself as the foreman of the building scheme at Clonturk Park.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

INTERNATIONALS IRREGULAR.

Although trading in the Industrial market remained on a small scale on the resumption of dealings yesterday, the tendency seemed somewhat steadier. Trans-Atlantic issues responded to the improved tone on Wall street, with the exception of Nickels, which reflected the cut in the quarterly dividend. Other Internationals opened harder, but as Paris sent over a few selling orders the improvement was not fully maintained. Moderate support was forthcoming for the leading Brewery issues, following the appearance of the Guinness and Watney Combe reports.

Apart from Nickels, which, for reasons stated above, weakened to 12 7/16, the trans-Atlantic group presented a fairly firm front. There was, however, little doing on this side, and, with New York not disposed to give fresh support in the late dealings, values generally gave way. Radio Corporation finished at 18 after 18¼, United States Steels at 87¼ after 88, and Hydro Electric at 18¼ after 18⅝. Brazilian Traction Common were dealt in around 19 ex dividend at the opening, receding later to 18⅝.

Cables and Wireless Stocks were a rather better market, but eventually showed little change on balance. The Pref. closed at 47 after 47½, the "A" Ord. at 12 after 12½, and the "B" Stock at 6½. There was not much variation among the Gramophone issues, "Emmies" finishing at 1 5/16.

A few inquiries from the provinces helped Motor Shares. Leylands strengthened 1s. to 35s., while Austin Ord. improved to 33s. 9d., Dennis to 21s. 3d., and Singers to 12s. 6d. On the other hand, Thomas Tilling closed dull at 3 15/32.

Moderate support was forthcoming for some of the Brewery shares. Watney Deferred were marked up 9d. to 47s. 6d. on the annual report, and Guinness hardened to 100s. 3d. on the full figures. Benskins, Distillers, Meux, Ohlssons and Courage Ordinary also improved slightly.

Tobacco leaders generally were well maintained, with the exception of Carreras "A," which sagged to 3⅝. "Imps" gained the turn.

Little interest was taken in Textiles or Rayons. Linen Thread came in for attention from the North, and improved to 22s. 6d., but Bradford Dyers came on offer at 14s. 9d. and Fine Spinners at 13s., the rest closing unchanged.

A more hopeful outlook was taken of the Rayon industry, but this had no effect on share values. Courtaulds remained around 27s. 3d., American Celanese Common at 2⅝, and Canadian Celanese at 1 7/16. British Celanese Ordinary held at 5s., but the Second Preference receded to 4s. 9d., and Grouts gave way to 12s. 6d.

The Swedish issues made headway, but closed below the best. Kreuger and Toll left off ⅜ up at 18½, after 18⅝, and Swedish Match "B" ⅛ better at 9 9/16, after 9 11/16. Imperial Chemicals kept steady at previous levels, while Dunlops, Crittalls, Turner and Newalls and Wallpaper Deferred all improved a few pence. Among recent issues, Woolworths advanced 1s. to 45s.

OIL SHARES FIRM.

Firmness characterised the Oil Share Market at the commencement of business yesterday, following the receipt of more favourable advices from New York. A further advance in Pennsylvania Crude Oil was reported, bringing the posted price for top-grade to $1.70, against $1.55 previously, so that the current quotation is only 15 cents below that ruling at the close of 1930, although it compares with $3.05 at December 31, 1929. During the early hours Paris was inclined to be a buyer of its favourites, and consequently prices of international counters strengthened. Later in the day, however, an easier tendency developed, but although the prices of the leaders receded they generally closed with a steady appearance.

RUBBER SHARES REACTIONARY.

Trading in the Rubber Share Market yesterday was on a very restricted scale, and values were marked back rather heavily in a number of directions, the weaker tone prevailing in the commodity market being a contributory factor. Batu Tiga went off sharply to 6s. 3d., at which a loss of 3s. 9d. was shown, while Highlands dropped away to the extent of a half crown at 10s. Extremely slow conditions obtained in the raw material market, and a further recession was shown in quotations. Spot realised only 2⅞d. per pound, while August delivery was quoted down to 2¾d. per pound. October to December fetched 2 15/16d. and January to March 2 15/16d. per pound. London stocks of rubber showed an expansion of 231 tons at 80,335 tons, which compares with 80,739 tons a year ago, while Liverpool stocks were ... tons higher at 54,881 tons.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

The marked absence of business, which was so apparent throughout the day, continued in the "Street" Market. Even among Transatlantic issues trading was almost non-existent, New York advices offering no inducement to further dealing. As a result quotations were barely altered on their official closing levels. Interest in Anglo-Americans was mostly confined to Nickels, which finished with buyers in evidence at 12⅝. Tractions met with a few inquiries, but closed without change at 18⅜. There was hardly any mention of Radios, which remained at 18. Emmies were neglected at 1 5/16. Steels at first slipped back to 87, but finished at the "House" closing price of 87¼. Canadas eased a trifle to 25⅝. Elsewhere there were very few quotable changes, business being extremely quiet. Among Oils, Dutch left off ⅛ lower than the 4 o'clock price at 16⅞, and Shells were dull at 2 5/16. Scarcely any market in Home Industrials existed, although Woolworths Ord. improved slightly to 45s 3d. Mines continued friendless.

LONDON MINING MARKET STEADY.

GOLD SHARES POPULAR.

Business in the Stock Exchange was resumed after the holiday under quiet conditions. Among the speculative departments the Mining Market made quite a good showing, and there is no doubt that the Gold shares are gradually gaining in popularity. Trading in the Kaffir section showed signs of expansion, the demand, which was partly on home and partly on Cape account, being, no doubt, stimulated by the satisfactory nature of the monthly returns so far to hand. Paris was doing very little in this department, but the tone generally at the close was remarkably firm. Rhodesians were still out of favour, and business was reduced to a minimum. Some offering of Chartered on an unwilling market caused a further drop in the price. The Victoria Falls issues were wanted and went ahead, and among the Gold shares Cam and Motor were being quietly picked up. The Northern issues were stagnant, not a single quotable alteration being recorded. Although the price of tin showed a distinctly harder tendency, thanks to a modest growth of demand, the final price of £110 10s. per ton showing a gain of £2 5s. on the day, the share market was idle, and little change was shown in values. A trifling recovery in the price of copper to £32 12s. 6d. per ton exercised no influence on the shares, but Rio Tintos, mainly on a little bear covering, called the turn. Closing prices :—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

A BANK'S VIEW OF THE CRISIS.

The current issue of Lloyds Bank Monthly Magazine stresses the need of political security in Europe as the real basis of financial stability. The London Conference, it is pointed out, however valuable its conclusions may have been as a palliative, did not, or was not able to, direct a penetrating gaze into the centre of the trouble. "To preach vicarious effort and to expect financial institutions to continue short-term credits to Germany, while averting an immediate collapse, has not set the financial and industrial activity of Germany going again, and Germany is still living from hand to mouth. The problem is fundamentally political—it is worse than useless to shut our eyes to this obtrusive fact. The economic malaise of Europe has its roots in bewilderment and anxiety, in haunting suspicion and nervous scrutiny of the future. Great Britain and France and the United States cannot afford to contemplate financial and political chaos in Germany, but no remedy will deal with causes as distinct from symptoms if it does not take account of the European need of political security which is fundamental. Of one thing we may be certain—the policy of political shifts and financial expedients is allowing trivial questions to become serious and serious questions to become dangerous."

U.S. OIL POSITION.

Latest indications from the United States do not suggest that the oil industry there is showing any signs of improvement, but, if anything, that conditions are even more uncertain than they were. The flood of oil in the East Texas field has apparently upset price standards, and, with so much of the commodity available, an effort is being made to have legislation introduced which would have the effect of controlling the situation. Oil, like all other raw materials, is feeling the full effect of the world depression in trade, and it is evident that whatever measures may be taken to restrict outputs, little permanent improvement in the situation can take place until consumption, fostered by trade recovery, comes more into line with production. At the moment reports from the United States are by no means optimistic regarding the outlook for trade in general. America, like the rest of the world, being under the depressing influence of the European financial crisis, and business there, as elsewhere, is more or less marking time.

REDUCED NICKEL PAYMENT.

Little surprise will be occasioned on markets by the decision of the International Nickel Company of Canada to reduce the quarterly dividend to 10 cents, thus placing the Common Stock on a 40c. annual dividend basis, against 60c. in the two previous quarters and $1 in the year 1930. At the last annual meeting the president emphasised that the future of the company depended upon an increasing consumption of nickel, and although no details of turnover in the second quarter are so far available, it is hardly conceivable that a company dependent for its prosperity on the basic industries could have escaped unscathed from the more acute phase of the depression in the past few months, and when the half-yearly statement becomes available shortly a further material contraction in the consumption of nickel will doubtless be reported. The persistent decline in copper is also an adverse circumstance confronting the company, while, of course, the by-products from electrolytic refining operations, such as platinum metals and silver, are selling at abnormally low prices. On the other hand, the company, having a virtual monopoly of the world's nickel supplies, has been able to maintain the price of the commodity throughout the "economic blizzard," and on that account will at once benefit from even a moderate recovery in demand.

SOME RAND "RECORDS."

One redeeming feature of stock markets of late has been the firmness of South African Gold shares. This firmness is fully justified by the figures now announced of the July operations. The Brakpan, the Cons. Main Reef, Crown Mines, East Rand, Geldenhuis Deep, Modderfontein East, the New Modderfontein and Nourse Mines, all report that a record tonnage was treated in that month, while in the case of the Durban Deep, the East Rand, Modder East, Nourse Mines and Simmer and Jack, there was also a record output. In the case of Geldenhuis Deep record figures were established as regards the tonnage output and profit. The Sub-Nigel also has an all-round record return, and in this case it is accompanied by a reduction in working costs in July to the new low record of 35s. 5.3d. per ton, a decline of 6⅜d. per ton compared with June, while the profit for July of £65,015 compares with £53,848 for July, 1930. The Brakpan reports a largely increased profit, and in this case and in the case of Springs Mines the amount is the highest recorded since October last. The Robinson Deep profit is the highest since May, 1930.

OIL PRODUCTION.

Trinidad Leaseholds, Ltd.—Oil produced during July, 17,400 tons; oil purchased during July from other companies, 55,750 tons.

Venezuelan Oil Concessions, Ltd.—Production for the week ended August 1st was:—Bolivar District, 77,170 m. tons; Maracaibo District, 13,379 m. tons. Total, 90,549 m. tons, against 90,367 m. tons for the previous week.

Phœnix Oil.—Gross production of crude oil of the Phœnix Group for July, 71,862 tons.

PORPOISES IN DUBLIN BAY.

Yesterday afternoon a shoal of porpoises were observed disporting themselves in Dublin Bay between Kingstown and Dalkey. Their antics were a source of much interest to visitors to these parts of the coast line, who watched them following the schools of mackerel.

THE MONEY MARKET

DISCOUNT RATES STEADY

The holiday cash demands and the usual window-dressing by some of the banks caused credit to be in short supply yesterday, and a small amount was taken from the Bank of England. Borrowers paid 3½ per cent., as a rule, for renewing old loans, and up to 4 per cent. was charged for fresh advances until to-day. The discount market was not much affected by the week-end developments, and rates were fairly steady. Fine three months' bank bills were quoted at 4¼ to 4 5/16 per cent., and Secondhand Treasuries were wanted at 4¼ per cent. At the Bank of England £100,829 in bar gold was bought, £8,750 in bar gold was sold, £100,000 in sovereigns released, and £35,000 in sovereigns exported. Silver improved 1/16d. to 13 1/16d. per oz. for both spot and forward delivery. Gold fell to 84s. 9½d. per oz. fine, there being no demand for a small amount of the metal available.

After a firm opening sterling, in terms of the principal currencies, cheapened steadily, and on balance rates were usually lower than Saturday's levels. The dollar rate closed at the lowest at 4.85 11/16, as against 4.85¾ on Saturday, while the Canadian rate fell by ¼c. to 4.86⅞. Francs were practically unchanged on balance at nearly 123.90. Reichmarks were again nominally quoted at 20½. Among the South American currencies, Argentine dollars cheapened by 1/16 to 32⅜ and milreis by ⅛d. to 3 5/16.

AMALGAMATED ANTHRACITE COLLIERIES.—Dividend on 7 per cent. Cum. Pref. Shares, due August 1, will not be paid.

CANADIAN CELANESE.—Earnings for the current period being substantially in excess of dividend requirements, the directors of Canadian Celanese, Ltd., have declared a quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the 7 per cent. Cumulative Participating Preferred Stock, payable September 30, to holders of record September 15. Last month stockholders sanctioned the changing of dividend payments on the Preferred Stock from semi-annually to quarterly.

STRUGGLE IN A CAMP.

OFFICER AND UNKNOWN MAN.

The story of an officer's midnight struggle with an intruder at Roedean Camp, on the cliffs near Brighton, where several thousand soldiers are under canvas, was told at Brighton Police Court yesterday, when Joseph Henry Edmunds, aged 22, who appeared in the dock with a bandage across his forehead, was charged with being found on enclosed premises for an unlawful purpose.

Captain Charles Sturge, Adjutant of the 10th London Regiment, stated that at about midnight on Monday, just after he had gone to bed, he saw a figure cross a beam of light which came from the Officers' and Sergeants' Mess tents. Edmunds was in the tent holding up a Service jacket, owned by witness, and feeling in the pockets.

"I waited for about three seconds," said Captain Sturge. "I could not make out what happened. Then I realised that there was a strange man in the tent. In reply to a question, the man said: 'It's all right, mate,' and later said he was in the Sherwood Foresters, which happened, by a strange coincidence, to be my own regiment.

"He then began to argue, and I thought he was drunk, so I gave him a left and right uppercut. He fell down, but tried to force his way into the tent again. He threatened me, so I tried to bluff him. I took out a Service revolver and told him to put his hands up, but this was not successful. He came at me and I hit him over the eye with the revolver. He went off and got entangled in some wire, and was collared by Major Allen. We dragged him back into the Officers' Mess and sent for the police."

When seen by the police Edmunds said: "What about this lot?" (pointing to his head). "I have been hit with a bottle."

Edmunds told the Court that he was taken into the camp by two soldiers, and was immediately set upon and hit when he went into the tent.

It was stated that Edmunds was a miner from Monmouthshire, who had been employed on relief work at Brighton.

A remand for a day was ordered with a view to further inquiries.

KINGSTOWN MOTOR FATALITY.

JURY EXONERATE WOMAN DRIVER.

A verdict that death was due to a fractured skull, caused by being knocked down and run over by a motor car on the Marine road, Kingstown, on Monday afternoon, was returned at an inquest held yesterday by Dr. J. P. Brennan, Coroner, at St. Michael's Hospital, Kingstown, concerning the death of Betty Thomas, aged two years and a half, who lived with her parents at 102 Lower George's street, Kingstown.

A rider was added exonerating the driver of the car from blame.

The evidence showed that as Mrs. Farrell, of Cross avenue, Kingstown, who was accompanied by her daughter, was driving a motor car along the Marine road, the deceased child, her brother and father were standing in the centre of the roadway, and, as the car approached them at a slow speed, the little girl, who had hold of her brother's hand, pulled away from him and attempted to run back to the footwalk near which the car was travelling. She was knocked down by the car, the front wheel of which passed over her, killing her almost immediately.

Mrs. Farrell sounded her horn before approaching the part of the road where the child was, and did everything possible to avoid striking her. She was travelling in low gear, and swerved the car to the left in an effort to avoid the child.

The jury, the Coroner, Station-Sergeant Feely, who appeared for the Civic Guard, and Mr. Farrell tendered their sympathy to the parents of the child.

NAVAL COMMANDS.

The Admiralty notify that Rear-Admiral R. G. Henderson, C.B., has been appointed Rear-Admiral Commanding Aircraft Carriers, to date September 21. Rear-Admiral F. L. Tottenham has been appointed Rear-Admiral Commanding the Third Cruiser Squadron, to date January 7 next year.

THE HANKOW FLOODS.

RESULT OF A WAGES DISPUTE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
HANKOW, Tuesday.

Coolies wrangling with their foreman for a few shillings more wages were indirectly responsible for the terrible flood disaster which overtook Hankow yesterday, when hundreds of lives were lost and five thousand homes were destroyed.

The coolies were engaged in strengthening with sandbags the dam which held up the waters of the Yangtse River lakes at the rear of the city. At a tragically inopportune moment they struck for more wages, and an argument with their foreman ensued which lasted for half an hour. Slight leaks were then observed in the dam, and fifteen minutes later the water was pouring through them at a serious rate.

Even then energetic action might have remedied the defects, but the foreman and the coolies, seeing the volume of water increasing to a menacing extent, hastily beat a retreat. Soon afterwards the dam collapsed, with terrible results for the community.

Hankow is now entirely cut off from food supplies, and troops are working feverishly to ward off even worse floods.

EPIDEMIC OF DISEASE FEARED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Tuesday.

The United States Consul at Hankow has informed the State Department here that a serious epidemic of disease is inevitable, because of the unsanitary conditions under which the flood refugees are living.

"Huge crowds of refugees are destitute," he cabled. "They huddle in utterly inadequate places, with unsanitary arrangements."

The Jardine area, a foreign residential section of Hankow, was flooded to a depth of twenty feet yesterday.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN COOKE, M.A.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. John Cooke, M.A., which took place at the Meath Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, after a long illness, and at the advanced age of eighty-one years.

Born in May, 1850, Mr. Cooke came to Dublin from Ulster. He was a Master of Arts of Dublin University, and a lecturer in commerce there.

He attained a high place among Irish educationalists, and in 1884 was appointed Professor of Geography, History and Drawing at the Church of Ireland Training College, Kildare street, Dublin, in connection with which he did valuable work. He subsequently became Professor of English Language. It was not until August, 1930, that, with the general regret and good wishes of his colleagues, he retired from the post. He possessed in an eminent degree those qualifications which are so essential to the teacher, and his marked ability to impart knowledge was a valuable asset to the college and to the students.

The late Mr. Cooke wrote a considerable number of text-books in the early years of the Intermediate system. He was an acknowledged authority on English literature, and edited a carefully-compiled anthology of English verse—a volume that was considered one of his best books, and had a wide circulation. One of his principal labours, however, was the revision of the "Baedeker Guide to Ireland." This he virtually re-wrote, and it is regarded as one of the most exhaustive and informative of the handbooks of that well-known series. Indeed, everything that he wrote was characterised by singular accuracy and a lucid and readable style.

Educational and social reforms engaged most of his attention, and neither in politics nor in religious discussions did he take part. He was interested in various philanthropic movements, especially the temperance movement, and was a whole-hearted supporter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This Society, and its objects, made a strong appeal to him, as did any effort to relieve suffering and distress and to bring comfort and help to the afflicted. His experience in this direction gave him a great insight to the conditions of living in the slums and tenements of the city, and in this sphere he was a zealous worker. His interest in the matter dated back many years, and long before the agitation for the wiping out of the slums reached its present intensity he was one of the zealous band who set themselves out to remove this blot from the social life of the capital city, of which they were proud to be citizens.

He was also deeply interested in the subject of archæology and was a member of the Royal Irish Academy, and also of the Royal Society of Antiquaries, being a vice-president of the latter.

His wife pre-deceased him some few years ago, and he is survived by a daughter, who is an artist in London.

Mr. Cooke was a member of the Church of Ireland. He was a man of retiring disposition; yet he was well known in the city, and beloved by a large circle of friends, who admired his unostentatious benefactions. His home was at 66 Morehampton road, Dublin.

BRAY WATER SUPPLY.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON POSITION AWAITED.

Mr. P. J. Meghen, B.E., B.Sc., Commissioner, sitting in the Bray Town Hall yesterday, considered and adjourned a report from Mr. E. M. Murphy, B.E., Surveyor, in connection with the hot water baths.

There is considerable demand, especially from the schools, for an enclosed and heated swimming pool in Bray. The estimated cost of carrying out the work is £358.

The Surveyor, referring to the complaint made at the last meeting regarding the inadequacy of the water supply in some areas in Bray, said that he had seen the City Manager of Dublin and the engineers about the matter. They said that they could not give Bray a greater pressure than at present. Subsequently Mr. O'Dwyer, Chief Engineering Inspector to the Local Government Department, called a conference of the City Engineers, Mr. Webb, the Surveyor of Kingstown Borough, and himself, and the whole question was discussed. Mr. O'Dwyer had not yet made his report.

Mr. Meghen said that they could do nothing more until they had the report before them.

SOUTH COUNTY DUBLIN DOG SHOW.

In our report of the South County Dublin Dog Show yesterday it was stated that in the Puppy (Dog or Bitch) section, Yorkshire Terriers, Miss M. Duggan, of Phibsborough, Dublin, had won first prize. This was incorrect. First prize was won by The Little King of Sunhaven, owned by Mrs. Constance Powell-Anderson, of Sunhaven, Dalkey, County Dublin.

FREE STATE "PUSH" IN BLACKPOOL.

ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY OF IRISH PRODUCE.

The Irish Free State display arranged for by the High Commissioner, Mr. Dulanty, opened in Blackpool yesterday. The Mayor, the Town Clerk and the Council were present.

A fine shop premises situated on the best part of the Promenade has been acquired for a fortnight, and it has been filled in a most attractive manner with the best we can procure in foodstuffs, cream, butter, eggs, bacon, hams and lard, tinned fresh cream, condensed milk, vinegar, whiskey, biscuits, Carrageen moss, etc. Samples of butter, eggs, cream, condensed milk and Carrageen moss will be on sale during the period of the display.

The idea of making a Free State display in Blackpool during the August holidays is a happy one, because of the fact that the appeal in favour of Irish products will reach people from all over Lancashire, Glasgow, and even districts further south who will be spending their holidays at this resort.

A further feature of the Free State publicity push in Blackpool is the special film which is being shown in the daylight cinema in the entrance hall of the Winter Gardens.

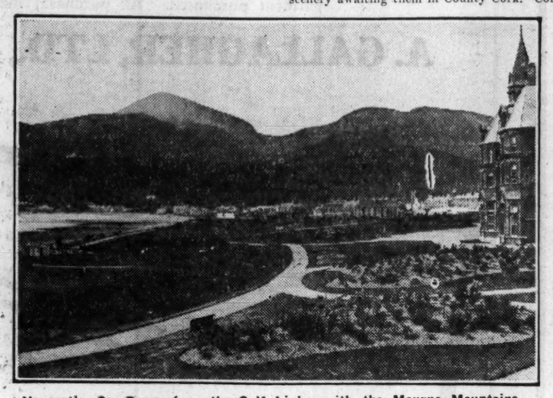
IRELAND FOR THE SUMMER HOLIDAYS.

A COUNTRY OF INFINITE CHARM.

IT is easy to write of holidays after a brilliant Bank Holiday, with its mighty exodus of city folk to sea and country, and, on the other hand, the inrush into Dublin of thousands of visitors to the Horse Show. Sunshine, Bank Holiday and the Horse Show—what is there wanting to inspire one with "the holiday-rejoicing spirit?"

One reads, sadly, in the newspapers of the pessimism that has beset English holiday caterers; sadly, not only for their own sakes, but because of the national ailments, of which this is a symptom. A country which is unable to enjoy its holidays cannot be in its normal state. To a certain extent, also, one is sorry, from selfish reasons; for to thousands of English pleasure-seekers Ireland at holiday times has an irresistible lure.

What President Cosgrave has written of as



Newcastle, Co. Down, from the Golf Links, with the Mourne Mountains in the background.

"the purple glory of her ever-changing hills, the colouring of her gorse and heather, the placid calm of her wooded lakesides and the thunder of the Atlantic rollers," attract sooner or later almost every English person whose thoughts of a holiday extend further than the seaside resorts of his own country, and their first visit to this country is rarely their last; for experience teaches that nowhere else are all those scenic delights to be found in such varied profusion in so small a compass, while there are added attractions in the constantly-encountered memorials of Ireland's storied past, the thrill of moving among people whose outlook on life is so different from the Englishman's own, and finally—though, perhaps, one should not mention it here—that famous Irish hospitality which proves to be something more than a mere tradition.

For most visitors, too, there is not that great test of enthusiasm to be encountered on arrival of disembarking at a smelly quay and travelling through mean streets before settling down to discover the isle of beauty, which has been so long anticipated. Arriving at most of Ireland's tourist ports is in itself a delight and an experience. Of all those who have entered Ireland at Kingstown, for instance, who will ever forget those first wonderful glimpses of lonely rocks rising out of the sea, with a rugged background of peaks and ridges, and then a charming little town nestling beside the summer sea? There can be no hint of a possible disillusionment in such an introduction to "Ireland of the welcomes."

WHAT DUBLIN OFFERS.

Dublin itself offers so much more than any other city in the British Isles that the visitor who sees the Horse Show and then returns to his cross-Channel home will have no idea of all that he has left behind. A whole week may be well spent in exploration, and if he uses his time and opportunities judiciously he will be still discovering fresh objects of interest. The student of architecture will find delight in old Georgian houses of rare beauty and such imposing buildings as St. Patrick's and Christ Church Cathedrals, Trinity College, the Bank of Ireland, in which sat Grattan's historic Parliament; Dublin Castle, the National Museum and National Gallery of Irish Art, and Leinster House, not to mention a number of ancient churches dating back almost to the days of Brian Boru and the Danes. St. Michan's Church, with its many interesting objects, will well repay a visit.

Art and history alike are served by the National Gallery, with its splendid collection of portraits of figures who played their part in the building up of Ireland, while there are also many interesting portraits at the Dublin Municipal Gallery in Harcourt street. In the National Museum the visitor will find a treasure-house of beauty, with its exquisite variety of Celtic ornaments, relics of silver and gold, and Irish glass and pottery.

Then, for those who go in search of rus in urbis, there is the delightful oasis of St. Stephen's Green, right in the heart of the city, and at Glasnevin the pleasant by-ways of the Botanical Gardens, lined with delicate herbaceous colouring, and leading one to limpid little pools which sparkle in the sunshine. There is Phœnix Park, one of the finest parks in the world, which includes within its borders the well-stocked Zoological Gardens. Dublin has recently acquired a new amenity in the form of a service of trips around Dublin Bay in the steamer An Saorstat, which offers non-stop cruises around the Bay, with entertainments on board.

SEASIDE RESORTS.

But the visitor who sees only Dublin has still not seen Ireland; for he will have missed all those charming features of the countryside which have been immortalised in song and story the whole world over. The far-off hills that he sees from the streets of Dublin will probably draw him first to County Wicklow, where he will light upon valleys and glens, richly decked with flowers and trees, heather and ferns, and dotted with lovely lakes, broad streams, and tinkling burns. Glendalough, Glenmalure and Avoca will be three of the many spots that will charm him in Tom Moore's country. Not far south he will arrive at Courtown, with its silver sands, three miles from Gorey. This pretty watering place, nestling in a wooded vale near the sea, is deservedly popular with Dubliners, and its popularity is rapidly increasing on account of its fine strand, safe sea bathing, and the excellent fishing which the Owenvarragh River has to offer. There is something for every taste at Courtown. Close at hand are three other fine watering places—Waterford, Tramore and Rossiare.

For those who do not wish to go quite so far afield from Dublin there are plenty of alternative journeys. That is one of the most delightful features about Ireland for the holiday-maker, that its seaside resorts are so numerous and so easily accessible. The northern Wicklow coast has an infinite variety of seaside towns, and one which springs instantly to the mind is Greystones, within very handy reach of the capital, and possessing all the necessary amenities, including a perfect strand, first-class bathing facilities, and a sporting eighteen holes golf links. For many years Greystones has been becoming more and more popular, yet it has lost none of its charm, nor has it tended to become overcrowded. In this it resembles its even more famous neighbour, Bray.

For those who wish to get away from the eastern part of the country there is glorious scenery awaiting them in County Cork. Cork City itself, a picturesque group of hilly streets on the River Lee, might well be described as the home of cheerfulness, such a reputation has its citizens for care-free, leisurely ways. Old and new jostle one another here on every hand. In the main thoroughfare fine new buildings have been erected to replace the destruction of recent years, but the architects of other days have their monuments in such fine old erections as Shandon Church, with his towering steeple; St. Fin Barre's Cathedral, St. Mary's Cathedral and University College. There are also the celebrated Ford works to be seen.

THE "KINGDOM OF KERRY."

Obviously a visit to the South of Ireland would not be complete without an excursion to Blarney Castle to kiss the famous stone. About the magical properties of the Blarney Stone, which is traditionally supposed to confer remarkable eloquence upon all who go through the rather exciting rite associated with it, the iconoclast may have his doubts, but he goes through the ceremony with none the less gusto. The castle lies only about fifteen miles from the heart of Cork City, affording a pleasant drive through leafy lanes. All around the city the traveller discovers places of interest. There is Queenstown, rising steeply up from above the harbour; further on one comes to the bustling little tourist town of Youghal, with several historic shrines, and then a short trip up the Blackwater takes him to Cappoquin, where can be seen the far-famed Mount Melleray. Here the Trappist monks have turned the barren stretch of land which was given them as a refuge long ago into flourishing agricultural land. And so one goes on into the old "Kingdom of Kerry."

Down in this earthly paradise automatic means of transport seems a waste of opportunity; for, instead of being hurried onwards with the landscape rushing by, one wants to linger at delectable spots, standing on an eminence to admire the panorama that stretches away into the distance as far as the eye can reach, or leaning over the coping of some old bridge to watch a tumbling stream as it gurgles musically over the stones that form its uneven bed. Walkers and cyclists alone can appreciate to the full the glories that nature has so prodigally distributed in these enchanted parts, and these two classes will find no more attractive hunting grounds. The present boom in "hiking," and the undoubted increase in the practice of cycling, assures a plethora of tourists in this part of Ireland.

Kerry, of course, suggests to the visitor Killarney, with its "lakes and fells, emerald isles and winding bays"; but there are many other choice centres which, without having been written about in inspired verse, are still havens of charm, such as Kenmare, Glengarriff (with its semi-tropical vegetation), Parknasilla, and Dingle Bay.

CONNEMARA'S GRANDEUR.

For those who prefer the rugged grandeur of rocky crags and heath to the more mournful contours of the Kerry hills, Connemara offers landscapes that are unrivalled in any part of the globe. The haunting beauty of this little corner of Connaught, with its mountains, lakes and rivers, makes it, perhaps, the most romantic portion of Ireland, while the visitor will be eternally reminded that he is here in the Gaeltacht, where the old Gaelic traditions and language have never died out.

Galway City, the capital of the West, and also its natural doorway, is the seat of a university college, and has succumbed in many other ways to the march of modern progress; yet, even here the tourist will find contrast with all other Irish cities which will make it impossible to forget that he is in the Citie of the Tribes. No visit would be complete, of course, without penetrating to the Claddagh, an old-world village on the city's outskirts, about which many traditions linger, but which authority is now beginning to modernise. A steamer trip of twenty-seven miles takes one to the Arran Islands, once fortresses of considerable importance, and now inhabited by frugal-living people who speak the Irish tongue exclusively and snatch a hazardous livelihood by tilling the bleak soil which has been fertilised with seaweed gathered on the shore. In Galway, itself, too, there are interesting old ecclesiastical ruins to be seen.

Not far away is the glorious scenery of Sligo, which, although in the Irish Free State and conveniently reached by rail from Dublin, is equally accessible to tourists coming from Northern Ireland. One particularly delightful seaside resort is this county is Strandhill, where everything possible is being done to attract the holiday-maker. The town has the advantage of an enterprising Improvement Committee, who have commenced their task of developing the amenities of the district by the construction of a nine-holes golf course, which is to be completed by the end of August. Further north lies County Donegal, another celebrated home of beauty, with its far-famed hills and valleys, which boasts several good golf courses.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Nor has Northern Ireland been neglected by Nature in the distribution of her favours; for each of the Six Counties has a charm which is peculiarly its own. Belfast has some remarkably fine buildings, notably the City Hall, a dignified structure, which has been made the subject of comparison with the outstanding city halls of the world. At the head of Belfast Lough, it is surrounded on three sides by a magnificent range of hills, with Cave Hill, rising to a height of eleven hundred feet, dominating everything. Away to the south-east stretches County Down, a county of green fields and stately woodlands, which contains many places of interest. At the south lies Downpatrick, where St. Patrick is buried. From the point of view of the holiday-maker, however, the chief place of interest will probably be Newcastle, where the Mountains of Mourne roll down to the sea in a colourful, stately sweep. With its summit wreathed in clouds, Slieve Donard, the highest mountain in Northern Pier and Happy Valley, Llandudno.

Ireland, towers over all, while in the foreground are golden sands and blue sea. Short excursions lead to a variety of other holiday spots, including Warrenpoint. In the north of the county are Bangor and Donaghadee, both within half an hour's run from Belfast.

Many visitors to the North will prefer to take the famous Antrim coast road, which might almost be said to defy comparison, winding as it does for mile after mile along the coast at the foot of steep cliffs, and dipping suddenly down into charming little old-world villages. Ballycastle, a secluded seaside town, is passed on the journey by this route to Giant's Causeway, which has been appropriately termed a "miracle in stone," standing a few miles outside Portrush, a great golfing centre. Another fine seaside town is Castlerock, in Co. Derry. Perfectly situated on the shores of Lough Erne is Enniskillen, one of the best lakeland resorts in the whole country, surrounded by pleasant walks and drives.

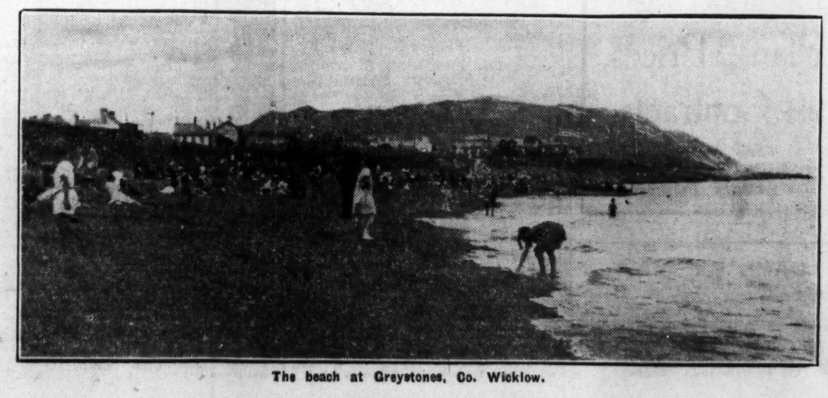
WALKERS AND CYCLISTS.

No stone is being left unturned by the residents of any part of Ireland to make their country attractive to the visitor from over the seas, and so to ensure that those who come here will take away none but pleasant memories. In so doing they are ensuring happy holidays not only to strangers, but to Irish people themselves who go to different parts of the country on holiday. What are the prospects for Ireland during the coming season?

As a country which offers exceptional delights for those who cycle or walk, and so combine health with sightseeing, Ireland should benefit from the spread of those forms of travelling. Apart from the establishment of a ramblers' club in Ireland itself, the country is being invaded by thousands of "hikers" from outside, and its roads are likely to echo to the tramp of innumerable feet this summer. As has been said, this is an excellent way—the best way—of seeing Ireland; but walkers will get the maximum of enjoyment by taking their exercise wisely instead of too well. The present writer during the last week-end met a party of girls who had set out from Cork to walk to Dublin in an incredibly short space of time. They had accomplished their task, but their weary faces and tired feet showed that, apart from satisfaction at their performance, they had derived no benefit from their holiday. They had missed all the glorious charm of Ireland.

Cyclists, too, should beware of trying to crowd two days' travelling into one. The best form of cycling holiday is that derived by tandem travelling. On every hand one sees indications that the old "bicycle made for two" is coming into unheard of favour, while "triplets" are also making their appearance, and in one case the writer saw a "quadruplet" being pedalled through the streets of Dublin, with the three riders in the front seats doing the work and the fourth man cheering them in their endeavours by playing a concertina. What could be more delightful?

Courtown Harbour, Co. Wexford—A favourite seaside resort.



The beach at Greystones, Co. Wicklow.

THE ANGLER'S PARADISE.

THIS YEAR'S EXCEPTIONAL SALMON.

"IRELAND," Mr. Stephen Gwynn has written, "is the world's pleasantest place to fish in," and obviously no article on Ireland as a holiday resort would be complete without some reference to the scope that it offers for anglers. Not only is it the pleasantest place to fish in—a circumstance which is important to the many anglers who delight to fish and meditate at the same time—but no other part of the British Isles will reward the fisherman with such large "catches."

Seven hundred Irish rivers are officially recognised as fishable, and there are, in addition, innumerable smaller rivers which give good sport. At the present time the salmon are exceptionally fine, on account of the extremely wet seasons which have been experienced during the last eight or ten years. The consequent floods have enabled fish which otherwise would not have been able to get to the higher reaches to do so during those years, in order to spawn. The fry were thus able to resist their natural enemies, the birds and otters, and they have now returned to their old haunts after their trip to the sea.

The question of cost is one which the angler will consider in making his choice of a holiday, and it can be safely asserted that nowhere will a cheaper fishing holiday be obtained than in the Irish Free State. For brown trout fishing no licence at all is required, though one will have to be taken out for white sea trout, as well as for salmon.

FISHING NEAR DUBLIN.

Having selected Ireland for his holiday, the angler has a remarkably wide choice of locality, as almost every part of the country has some river or lake in which sport is plentiful. Within half an hour's journey from Dublin some of the finest river fishing in the world is to be had. Kildare, not inaptly known as the "sportsman's county," has the River Liffey, absolutely teeming with salmon and trout and pike. Good centres here are Lucan, Leixlip, Clane, Sallins, Kilcullen and Harristown. Trout and pike may also be caught from the Barrow and its tributaries at Athy and Castledermot.

Another great fishing county is Galway—the paradise of the salmon angler. During the season the Galway River, when its waters are clear, can be seen to be packed with salmon, this crowding being attributable to the fact that this stretch of river, besides being very short, is the only means of access that the fish have to a series of lakes twelve hundred miles long. The Erriff river and lake, in the wilds of Connemara, have salmon and trout in abundance, as well as several other loughs and rivers of lesser importance where the fishing is free. The Corrib is a famous angling centre.

Carlow is another excellent centre for the angler, the Barrow offering ideal sport to the dry-fly fisher. The trout are of the best in Ireland, averaging usually from one to three pounds. The three tributaries of the Barrow, on the other hand, are wet-fly streams. The Slaney is another good stream. Each of these rivers yields both trout and salmon.

The Shannon, of course, should not be forgotten. The stretch at Castleconnell ranks with the best in Ireland, and at Killaloe the sport is excellent. Although the best places here are preserved, and must be leased from the proprietors, there are several miles of free trout and salmon fishing, while all fishing on Lough Derg is free. In the Mayfly season Killaloe is the centre for dapping. Limerick does not confine the fisherman to the Shannon, for there is further good sport at Abbeyfeale and Adare, where salmon and brown trout are plentiful in the Rivers Feale and Maigue.

DEVELOPING KILLARNEY.

Efforts to develop Killarney as an anglers' centre continue, and there is already a rich store of stock. Brown trout abound in all the lakes, and half a million salmon fry are annually turned into them. A fine hatchery exists on the River Deenagh, which produces every year millions of brown and white trout and salmon fry, while yearling brown trout are purchased for re-stocking. Free fishing is to be had on the Flesk River, an abundant stream, and there is a fair amount of brown trout in Lough Guittane.

As would be expected in the Lakeland of Ireland, Westmeath is an anglers' county, the best centre being Mullingar. Trout are the principal fish taken in the lakes. The average weight of those taken from Lough Ennell is a pound and a half, but there is a stuffed trout exhibited in the National Museum at Dublin which was taken from the lough and which weighed 26½ pounds. Although neglected for years, Lough Owel has some very large trout, and fish weighing six pounds are occasionally taken by trolling. Another splendid centre in the county is Athlone, where not only the Shannon, but six smaller rivers, give numerous trout.

These are a few examples of what Ireland offers to the angler, though they by no means exhaust the list. In conclusion, reference should be made to the deep-sea fishing. Excellent catches—unrivalled, in fact, in Europe—are to be obtained of bass, pollack and blue shark, Ballycotton (County Cork) and the West coast being the best fishing grounds.

CROSS-CHANNEL RESORTS.

Despite all the attractions that their own country has to offer, there are many Irish people who seek change in a trip across Channel. The West coast of England and Wales, with their innumerable summer resorts, have an irresistible call. Blackpool, New Brighton, Rhyl, and Llandudno are all attractive resorts, and are comparatively near at hand for the Irish visitor, entailing little or no rail travelling after leaving the steamer. Buxton is a delightful spa, which, though it involves a further journey, has many attractions, notably as a health resort. Those who are not deterred by questions of distance have a wide choice in the South of England.

Southend-on-Sea has the advantage of being a seaside town from which it will always be easy to "take a run up to town" and spend a day in London conveniently. Down in the South-West of England lies "glorious Devon," with its beautiful combination of country and sea, where rest or

In enclosing a further order for "Finola" Underwear we take the opportunity of congratulating you on the excellent way you are turning out the goods.

Our customers speak very highly of "Finola" Lingerie, and many ladies are quite surprised to know that they are of Irish manufacture.

That you are able - in these times of fierce competition - to sell not only to ourselves but to many of the great London Stores is not only evidence of the attractiveness of "Finola" wear, but is a high tribute to your Factory organisation and enterprise.

It will interest you to know that during Horse Show week we are making a special display of "Finola" Underwear in our windows.

Yours faithfully,
NEWELLS LIMITED.
